Taft Urges Top Brains For NLRB

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—Sen. Taft, (R.) of Ohio, anticipated final enactment of the Taft-Hartley labor bill today with a call for the appointment of outstanding citizens to the enlarged National Labor Relations Board. The Senate waited a vote on President Truman's veto, already bowled over in the House by a 331 to 83 vote.

Senators agreed on the timing of the vote Saturday before adjourning after a 30-hour, 22-minute filibustering session kept going by the President's supporters to delay a showdown.

There was widespread expectation among supporters of both the bill and the President's veto that the necessary two-thirds vote would be mustered to put the measure on the statute books despite Mr. Truman's opposition.

This action would place on the President the primary responsibility for administration of the law which he said in his veto message would be "unworkable," "cause more strikes, not fewer" and "do more harm than good."

Confident that the Senate would approve the measure, Taft told a reporter he is just as confident Mr. Truman will do the best he can to make it work.

"Otherwise," Taft said, "he would be stultifying himself."

The Ohio senator, who played a leading part in drafting the measure, said he regards the role of the new five-member NLRB and its counsel of primary importance in successful administration of the proposed law.

Mr. Truman complained in his veto message that the bill would "erect an unwieldy administrative structure for carrying out the National Labor Relations Act."

He said the Taft-Hartley provisions would invite conflict between the board and its counsel, since the counsel would be charged with deciding which cases were to be heard by the board and which were to be referred to the courts.

Taft and Sen. Pepper (D.) of Florida closed out the bitter week end debate with simultaneous broadcasts over different networks last night.

Pepper, pleading for enough Democratic votes to uphold the President's veto, called the vote "the most momentous domestic issue of our time."

Taft said the Senate was being "flooded with lobbyists" and special trains from New York were bringing "left-wingers down to overawe the Senate."

"But of course in America," he added, "these tactics have the opposite effect."

It seems likely Mr. Truman's objections to specific provisions will get careful study by a 14-member Senate House "watch dog" committee to be set up under terms of the measure.

Republican leaders are said to have decided on Sen. Ball (R.) of Minnesota, a member of the labor committee who wanted to go even further than the Taft-Hartley bill

Howard Johnson Stickup Nets 2 Gunmen $5000

Two gunmen this forenoon grabbed $5000 in cash from a Howard Johnson restaurant manager in the parking lot at the rear of the Johnson stand on Huntington ave., Roxbury. Stuart Storey of Waverly st., Arlington, manager of the Johnson restaurant on Memorial Drive, Cambridge, told police that he had just driven into the parking lot at the Huntington ave. stand when he noticed a blue sedan following.

He said that it was the custom for him to bring receipts from Cambridge to Roxbury where they were picked up by Brink's Express.

As he stepped from his car, Storey said, a man wearing a garbardin coat, dark glasses, and carrying a blue steel revolver stepped from the other car and demanded: "rop that money."

Storey said he dropped a canvas bag containing change but held onto a tin box with the bills. A second man, the manager was unable to describe, picked up the bag, snatched the box from under his arm and leaped back into the car.

The victim said he thought there might have been a third man in the car which fled from the parking lot and sped along Ward st. in a southerly direction through the Mission Hill housing project.

Storey rushed into the restaurant and told Sonia Abramson of Commonwealth ave., Brighton, a cashier, what had occurred. She immediately called police.

Ship Blast Deaths May Reach 14

WILMINGTON, Cal., June 23 (AP)—At least two, probably 14, men were dead today following a $10,000,000 ship-explosion fire—Los Angeles Harbor's costliest calamity, which only fate and foresight apparently kept from becoming another "Texas city."

The 11,083-ton tanker Markay blew up with 2,940,000 gallons of fuel in a triple explosion that razed several docks and—harbor authorities said—missed igniting huge petroleum storage tanks only because of favorable winds.

Two bodies were recovered from the harbor shortly after the blast yesterday and searchers planned to board the shell of the tanker today to remove others spotted by Coast Guard observers last night after the vessel stopped burning.

Twelve men were listed as missing, with some 30 injured, 12 sufficiently to be hospitalized.

Cause of the explosion was undetermined.

Residents of Long Beach, seven miles away, were jolted from their sleep. Over all hung a dense pall of smoke, rising to hundreds of feet.

Punjab Divided As 28 Die in Riots

LAHORE, India, June 23 (AP)—The Punjab legislature, meeting behind protective barbed wire barricades heavily manned by police, voted today to divide the fertile province and its 30,000,000 people between Hindustan and Moslem Pakistan.

The vote followed a weekend of bitter communal rioting in which 28 persons were slain, and strict security measures were invoked by police in an effort to prevent any new demonstrations.

The city was relatively quiet this morning.

The hunt was halted after an uncle, Harry Cunningham, found Joe curled up in a side-board drawer, bedded in table linens. The boy explained sleepily he just hadn't liked the idea of sleeping upstairs.

Cote's Boss Tells Of Murder Night

PLYMOUTH, June 23—Melvin Earle, Brockton automobile dealer who employed Rene Cote, testified today at the murder trial of Cote's attractive widow that she told him she had not seen her husband for "three or four days at Christmas time," and that he had $2000 with him the night before he was murdered.

The stocky, hard-of-hearing Earle was called as the first State witness today in a courtroom crowded with women spectators, who had filled every available seat in prospect of seeing Mrs. Bertha Cote face Barbara Belmore, the dancer who the state contends was the "other woman" in Cote's life. Miss Belmore is expected to be called later as a government witness.

Although the name of the dancer was not actually mentioned during Earle's testimony, it appeared several times by implication under questioning by Asst. Dist. Atty. John R. Wheatley.

Earle testified soon after 1 p. m., Dec. 27, Cote approached him at the garage, tasked for some time off and permission to borrow his wife's car for a short time, which, he said, he granted. He said he telephoned the Cote home about 7 p. m. and asked Mrs. Cote if her husband had re-

BERTHA'S OUTFIT

PLYMOUTH, June 23—Mrs. Bertha E. Cote wore a new outfit for start of the second week of her trial for murder today, but she retained her partiality for black and white. The defendant was dressed in a modishly-cut black woolen suit with tie belt and white crape blouse. She wore a white lace handkerchief in her suit pocket. Her accessories, handbag, shoes and coronet hat, all were white.

DANCER BARBARA ARRIVES AT TRIAL

PLYMOUTH, June 23—Barbara Belmore, acrobatic dancer, with whom Rene Cote had a Boston night club date last Dec. 27, a few hours before his battered body was found beside a Christmas tree in his Brockton apartment, arrived at Plymouth Superior Court shortly before noon. She has been summoned as a State witness. The government contends she was the "other woman" in the slain man's life.

GIGGLES BANNED

PLYMOUTH, June 23—Spectators at the Cote murder trial were warned today that laughter will not be tolerated in the courtroom.

Before formal opening of the session, Court Crier Adnah Harlow of Wareham cautioned the gallery that if anything in the testimony struck them funny to hold their giggles until after they had left the courtroom. He served notice that anyone laughing while court was in session would be put out.

Today's Testimony

PLYMOUTH, June 23—The Cote murder trial entered its second week at Plymouth Superior Court here today at 10:16 before Judge Felix Forte and a jury.

The first witness was Melvin Earle, owner of the garage where Cote worked. His wife was the final witness of the day when court adjourned Saturday.

A deputy sheriff went over to Mrs. Earle and requested her to leave the courtroom because she might be re-called as a witness.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Wheatley then questioned Earle.

Father of Six Shot in Head

Shot in the head by a policeman in Sagamore as he was being sought on a nonsupport charge, a Plymouth father of six children was battling for his life at City Hospital today.

The condition of Sven Stenquist, 42, of the Cedarville district, was described as "unchanged and poor." Brain specialists examined him, and an operation may be performed if his condition improves.

He was transferred here from Tobey Hospital in Wareham shortly after he was shot in the back of the head by Patrolman Orrin Allen. Allen said he was seeking Stenquist on an anonymous tip for a nonsupport charge brought in Wareham court March 20.

The officer said Stenquist dodged into the woods but reappeared on Route 3 and was seized. As he was entering a police car, he allegedly broke loose and ran for the woods, shouting, "You'll never take me alive."

Allen said he fired a shot in the air and as he ran in pursuit fired a second shot just as he stumbled, and this slug hit Stenquist.

A few hours earlier, the father, an itinerant mason, showed up at the home of his wife, Winifred, 38, and left with his work clothes; police reported.

Anti-Reds Battle to Control Delegates of Lynn Union

Lynn today was the testing ground in the move to end what anti-Communist forces contend is an attempt to gain Communist domination of the CIO United Electrical Workers Union.

Local 201 of the UEW, with a membership of 16,000, met in Coulthard Hall, Lynn, to elect a 10-man delegation to the national convention to be held in Boston in September.

An anti-Communist group in the local was reported to have worked out a strategic plan, which was regarded as certain to result in a heated clash on the Communist issue during the election session. The result will disclose the strength of the anti-Communists, who were actively mobilizing throughout New England for the battle on the issue at the national convention.

The plan of strategy calls for the rejection today of officers of

Curb on U. S. Aid May Result From Truman's Survey

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—President Truman, going part way with Republican Sen. Vandenberg, called for outside help today in weighing America's foreign aid policy with this country's ability to pay.

The Chief Executive designated 19 leaders of business, labor, agriculture, education and research as a non-partisan committee to advise him on how much help can safely and wisely be sent abroad.

The implication was plain: That the United States may find it necessary to stem the flow of dollars, food, fuel and materials to war-damaged nations.

The "impact upon our domestic economy" of such aid is of "grave concern to every American," said Mr. Truman's announcement, and "merits most careful study."

Mr. Truman took the words "safely and wisely" from the call Vandenberg sounded 10 days ago for a council of Democrats and Republicans to help set the limits within which this government can plan its economic help to foreign nations. But whether Vandenberg and his Republican colleagues will be satisfied remained to be seen.

The Michigan senator himself steered clear of mentioning specific candidates for the study group, but some of those close to Vandenberg let it be known they wanted former President Hoover to have a place on the council. Mr. Truman did not include him.

Hoover declared earlier this month that the U. S. has been over-exporting and cannot continue to shoulder immense overseas burdens without weakening the economy at home.

More recently Congress has heard criticisms of oil shipments to Russia in the face of predicted shortages in some areas here and of foreign meat purchases as a factor in rising prices.

Backing up the non-partisan group, President Truman said, will be two governmental committees. Secretary of the Interior Krug will head one to study the drain of national resources, and the President's council of economic advisers, headed by Edwin G. Nourse, will study the impact on the economy.

These two sets of findings—as well as others already prepared by the government—will be available to the 13-member committee, which will be directed by Commerce Secretary Harriman.

Whether all 19 members of the advisory committee would accept their assignment was not immediately known. White House Press Sec. Ross announced their selection, saying the President had not waited for replies.

On the list are such figures in finance as W. Randolph Burgess, vice chairman of the National

WOMAN VICTIM CARRIED TO SAFETY IN NEBRASKA FLOOD—Cambridge, Neb., Worst Hit by 12-Foot Wall of Wild Water. AP Wirephoto

Tornadoes, Floods Blizzards Kill 18

By Associated Press

Tornadoes, floods and howling blizzards claimed at least 18 lives, left hundreds homeless and trapped 70 vacationists in a swirling snowstorm yesterday as a reception to summer.

Hardest hit was Nebraska where at least 15 were known to have perished as a 12-foot wall of water from an overflowing creek surged through the town of Cambridge at dawn, taking the 1100 inhabitants by such surprise that they were unaware of this disaster until their homes were sent sprawling from their foundations.

At least three persons died in the cold of the blizzard which left snowdrifts as much as 15 feet deep at Beartooth pass between Yellowstone National Park, Wyo., and Red Lodge, Mont.

The floods in several areas of Nebraska followed cloudbursts which brought an estimated 12 inches or more of rain at Burwell and Broken Bow.

Mayor Lloyd C. Richardson of Cambridge said about 100 were homeless there, and North Loup, in the north-central part of the State, was inundated. Streams throughout the State went out of their banks. Ashland, in eastern Nebraska, was flooded for the fourth time this year.

Nine persons were known to have drowned at Cambridge and four others were missing. Nearly 200 persons were rescued from trees and house-tops.

Several communities along the Republican river and other streams were without communications and Harry D. Strunk, publisher of the McCook Gazette, expressed belief the death toll would rise.

Nine persons were injured by tornadoes which struck Loomis and Gothenburg, Neb.

The storm, moving eastward, left five inches of rain in Iowa and brought the town of Carroll its first flood in history.

Borne by winds up to 75 miles an hour, the Montana-Wyoming blizzard caught vacation tourists clad in light summer clothing and stranded them on the bleak mountain pass in automobiles and a trailer.

Bodies of the three dead were found when rescuers fell through a deep drift to the top of a snow-buried truck.

A ski patrol found 17 persons huddled around a small stove in the trailer, but others had to be dug out of deep drifts and carried to safety.

Siegel Underworld Murder Seen Ordered by Luciano

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 23—Benjamin "Bugsie" Siegel, Las Vegas, Nev., gambling club owner and ex-New York gunman, who was shot to death here last Friday night, was consigned to his ancestors with a four-bullet ticket because he made the social error of antagonizing Charles "Lucky" Luciano, the international vice and dope ring operator.

Police had this in their kit of information today as the result of prying into "Bugsie's" multiple affairs and the second murder that followed, the pistoling in Los Angeles of Sol Turkin, ex-convict.

Luciano, who was booted back to Italy by Uncle Sam, then out of Cuba when he appeared in Havana to set up shop again, still operated by remote control—as Bugsie knew in his death throes.

Last winter, when Luciano called his narcotic ring lieutenants to Havana for a series of round-table conferences on one thing and another in the States, he fumed about Bugsie's shocking ego. Bugsie was not only getting too big for his britches—the fellow was ignoring orders and even branching out for himself. Luciano sent word back—through characters Bugsie knew well—that this amuck of lese majeste, uppityness and double cross.

Bugsie, who didn't get his nickname for nothing, merely ordered some more two-toned sports suits, lorded it over the gambling tables of his Flamingo dice house in Las Vegas and played around with the Hollywood crowd, getting himself introduced in some famous drawing rooms.

He also defied the Mafia, old Italian Black Hand Society which Luciano had reorganized as an international dope ring, and began giving orders in the trade. This, in addition to Bugsie's deaf ear for help, irked Frank Orbi, one of the boys, who was languishing in a Tia Juana, Mexico, jail in connection with two killings.

Orbi tired of calling on Bugsie for a hand and called for the federal agents. Yesterday, in Washington, Harry J. Anslinger, narcotics commissioner, said Orbi told them all. It involved Bugsie so deep in the dope racket he would have been indicted within days, Anslinger said.

In addition to that angle, Bugsie's bump of independence grew so large he had the crust to double-cross some of his intimates in a $500,000 New York-Los Angeles stolen jewelry deal and a $114,000 Beverly Hills jewel robbery April 2.

Bugsie had even other interests, as police soon found when they checked the circumstances wherein he was blown from the divan of his friend, Virginia Hill, former actress and Alabama heiress, while innocently scanning a newspaper in convenient range of a window.

The most touching development to date was the sentimental request of Barney Ruditsky, retired New York detective, who runs a liquor store in Hollywood. When police went into a huddle on Bugsie's death, Ruditsky suggested he be included because he was an old friend of Bugsie back on Broadway.

When this was checked, it was found Bugsie had financed the liquor store.

Fired at by one of two bandits who attempted to hold him up early today outside his cafe in Washington st., Somerville, Antonio Macero, 53, of Joy St., Somerville, was saved when the bullet struck his belt buckle and ricocheted. Macero told police he and his son, Anthony, 21, were locking up the cafe when the two men demanded their money. After firing the shot the bandits fled in a car.

Finds $16,125 Bonds in Duffel Bag

HAMPTON BEACH, N. H., June 23—Police and Navy officials today had solved the mystery of the lost duffel bag, found by a Boston motorist on the highway near the Hampton Falls-Seabrook line and containing $16,125 in war savings bonds.

Also in the duffel bag were two pairs of socks, one pair of dungarees and a shirt.

Its finding by Peter Linstrom of Huntington ave., Boston, started a widespread effort to locate the David Allen Bowersox named in the bonds. Chief John J. Malek of Hampton Beach police enlisted the aid of Portsmouth naval officials and the FBI in solving the mystery.

While Navy officials in Washington were being contacted, Mrs. William B. Morris of Oklahoma City, Okla., notified authorities that the duffel bag belonged to her brother, David A. Bowersox, stationed at the U. S. Naval Station at Quonset, R. I.

Reached through an address listed on some of the bonds, Mrs. Morris said her brother was to have left Quonset Point Sunday on a fishing trip to Maine and probably lost the duffel bag en route.

She said he had been in the Navy 12 or 14 years and lives with his wife and two children at Quonset Point.

The bag contained eight $1000 bonds, two for $500, 46 $100 bonds and several for smaller amounts, also a government check for $275 issued in October, 1946, which Navy officials said represented the basic pay of a lieutenant-commander.

As soon as Bowersox can be located, he will be asked to claim his duffel bag and bonds—to say nothing of the socks, dungarees and shirt.

BALTIMORE, June 23 (AP)—After a 37-minute test flight over Chesapeake bay, the six-jet Martin XB-48 today became the Army Air Force's newest high-speed jet bomber. O. E. (Pat) Tibbs, Glenn Martin flight director, took the 480-mph. plane on its first flight. The new bomber has a wing span of 108 feet, 4 inches; is 85 feet, 9 inches long. Its total weight, empty, is 58,500 pounds. The plane can carry more than 10 tons of bombs.

Black Cat's Alarm Saves Malden Couple From Fire

If you're looking for an argument, try telling Frank J. Davenport of Centre st., Malden, that black cats are bad luck, especially after what happened today. Davenport, 32, operator of a small rooming house, was roused from sleep today by Blackie, one of his wife's two feline pets, raking his cheek with her claws.

He jumped up to find the mattress aflame and his wife, Geraldine, overcome. His own pajamas aflame, Davenport pulled his wife from the bed as three telephone emergency crew workers, employed in the exchange next door, entered the home and attacked the blaze with hand extinguishers.

Gun Kid Uses Boy Shield to Battle Cops

A 15-year-old Roxbury "gun kid," who seized and used as a shield another boy of the same age, pumped five bullets at pursuing police today in a brief reign of terror that ended when he was cornered in a Dale st., Roxbury, alley and overpowered.

The frightened human shield, whose arms were twisted behind his back by the youthful gun carrier, was William Ronan of Warren st. His captor dragged and pushed him an eighth of a mile to the alley, where police of five cruisers ended the weird chase.

The pursuit, followed by several hundred people of the area, began at Bainbridge st., near Washington Park, when Patrolmen James Bray and Charles F. McCloskey arrived there in their car to investigate reports of firearms being shot off.

They saw the youth and stepped out to question him when he whipped out a gun and fired two shots. One struck the police car in the hood, the other in the rear. The boy fled, the police in pursuit.

As their young quarry neared the Lewis School, Walnut ave., he saw the Ronan youth and seized him, holding him in such a manner the police could not use weapons.

Then, in his retreat to the alley where he was captured, the gunholder fired three more shots.

The Ronan boy, although terrified, took a chance when police rushed into the alley. He turned and knocked his captor's gun from his hand.

Patrolmen James Cusick and George Tolon overpowered the youth.

Police said he had carried a .32 and a .22. At the station house a close watch was placed over him, for his defiance was reported to be still asserting itself.

Chandler's Anti-Jewish Mania Told

Douglas Chandler, expatriate newsmen on trial for treason, suffers from delusions that he is being persecuted by the Jews, Dr. Edward A. Strecker, nationally known psychiatrist from Philadelphia, testified today as the trial went into its fourth week.

Dr. Strecker, consulting psychiatrist to the Navy, was called as a defense witness. He told the court that on June 7 he had spent 4 1/2 to 5 hours with the defendant making a mental examination.

During this examination Dr. Strecker disclosed, Chandler stated that he was "an infallible authority on Jewish history." He told the psychiatrist that there is no such thing in Egyptology as the "captivity of the Jews." He also spoke about Babalynian captivity of the Jewish people and blamed the French Revolution on the Jews, Dr. Strecker testified.

The defendant even stated that his attorney, Claude B. Cross, was being influenced by wealthy Jews," Dr. Strecker said.

At the end of his testimony he said that in his opinion the defendant was a "paranoiac."

Peeping Tom Caught, Queried in Girl Attack

Captured as he was allegedly peering into a window at the home of Frederick Moran in Pond st., Hyde Park, a 24-year-old local youth was being questioned today about Peeping Tom activities and an attempted attack on a young woman in that neighborhood.

The youth was nabbed by Moran, who held him until police arrived. He will be viewed by several residents who have complained recently about prowlers.

Amputee Vets 60 P. C. Jobless

Amputee veterans in Massachusetts are having great difficulty in obtaining jobs, with only 40 per cent of the 550 in the state having steady employment, it was disclosed at the annual meeting of the Amputee Veterans' Ass'n of America in Boston.

James A. Lucas of Canton, vice-commander, said the shock of not being able to work because they can't find jobs struck the amputees harder than the shock of losing one or more limbs. As a result, the amputees are beginning to lose confidence, Lucas asserted.

At the meeting, Cong. Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell was presented a plaque for her work in behalf of the amputees.

Charges Hapsburg Plot by British

BUDAPEST, June 23 (AP)—Hungary's government, under Communist control, has published statements purporting to link the British with a movement to restore the Hapsburg monarchy in Austria and Hungary and accusing ex-Premier Nagy of issuing orders for unauthorized "armed formations."

Few GIs in Japan Want Nipponese Brides

TOKYO, June 23 (AP)—Only a minutely small percentage of American soldiers and civilians in Japan are interested in marrying Japanese girls.

Applications to commanding officers to wed Japanese have been forwarded by a few Japanese-Americans and Negro troops, but only 15 American military personnel other than Nisei have asked to take Nipponese wives.

Radio-Delivered Newspaper Seen in New RCA Device

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—NBC Pres. Niles Trammell said today a new radio communication system has been developed which can send 1,000,000 words a minute.

He said the system, known as Ultrafax, "could transmit 20 50,000 word novels from New York to San Francisco in 60 seconds." It's so speedy, the National Broadcasting Company head told Congress, that present communications methods will seem as "slow as the ox cart compared with a straitliner."

Ultrafax was developed by Radio Corp. of America and will be ready for a public showing some time this summer. Trammell said this is the way it works:

"Each printed page is treated as . . . picture and (is) flashed in rapid succession. At the receiving end, the pages are reproduced by new high-speed photographic processes for quick delivery."

Trammell told a Senate interstate and foreign commerce subcommittee the new process might mean the newspaper of the future will be delivered by radio.

"Many radio broadcasters of today will become the electronic publishers of tomorrow," he predicted.

"Radio newspapers will become commonplace. Virtually every form of artistic expression will become available to the people direct from studio to home."

That is why, Trammell said, he favors removal of government controls over broadcasting. He thinks a pending bill which the committee is considering to revise the communications act of 1934 would put the spectre of Nazi censorship behind every American broadcaster.

The bill's requirements on political broadcasting are "impractical and a direct infringement on free speech," he said.

If radio stations were required by law to give equal time to proponents and opponents of political and public questions, Trammell said, they might have to give as much air time to support atheism as they do to belief in God.

BREAD RATIONING TO END

Able Now to Sit Up, Curley Ready for Trip to Capital

Following a day of marked improvement in his condition, during which he sat up in a chair for the first time since entering Cohasset Hospital, Mayor Curley today declared he was ready to go to Washington this week and "get it over."

Mary Curley Donnelly, the Mayor's daughter, and his two sons, George and Leo, said the Mayor was in much better spirits and hoped to remain out of bed for longer intervals today.

"He said he tired quickly but was feeling a great deal better," his daughter told newsmen as she left the hospital.

Earlier his physician, Dr. Edward E. Schott, said the 72-year-old patient had a good night, was definitely improved and in "pretty good condition."

According to Mrs. Donnelly, reservations have been made for the Curley party on a train leaving Boston for Washington Tuesday noon. It has been definitely decided, he said, that a doctor and nurse will go along to keep constant watch over Mayor Curley during the journey, and while he is resting Wednesday preparatory to appearance in court Thursday.

At that time it is expected his counsel, William E. Leathe and Nicholas Chase, will seek probation for their client, who faces 6 to 18 months in jail, together with a fine of $1000.

Polio Vaccination Proves Successful on Monkeys

BALTIMORE, June 23 (AP)—Three Johns Hopkins scientists reported today they have successfully vaccinated monkeys against infantile paralysis.

It is the first time the "microscope corps" in the fight against poliomyelitis has ever achieved what the Hopkins people call "solid immunity."

The time when you can have the family doctor give your children "shots" against polio still seems far off. However, the work of Drs. Isabel Morgan, Howard A. Howe and David Bodian at the Hopkins Poliomyelitis Research Center may have brought it a step nearer.

They used an "active" polio virus to immunize the monkeys, injecting it into their muscles.

On the basis of what they know now, the doctors figure it would be too dangerous to give a child a shot of live virus.

The doctors told about their work in the American Journal of Hygiene.

They vaccinated 25 monkeys with muscle injections at least four times.

Afterward they injected live polio virus right into the brains.

The doctors estimated these brain injections were thousands of times more deadly than any infection a man might pick up naturally.

None of the monkeys which had at least four muscle vaccinations developed paralysis after their brains were infected.

7 Curious Fijis Killed by Bomb

SUVA, Fiji Islands, June 23 (AP)—Two native men and seven boys were killed by the explosion of what was believed a jettisoned American bomb on Rotuma Island, 400 miles away, letters reaching here today reported.

The 250-pound bomb was first found by women who were fishing. They carried it ashore to use as one side of a fireplace, but a former Army youth warned them and it was returned to the sea.

Later it was found by a man from another village. This 30-year-old father of four carried it to his home.

Hearing of this, the young ex-soldier hurried down the coast to give warning.

The bomb was carried out to high-water mark.

The ex-soldier said it probably had been jettisoned by an American bomber during the war.

One boy chipped at the bomb casing with his knife, exposed bright metal in its nose and exclaimed "this looks like gold."

A second later the bomb exploded.

One man lived long enough to tell the story, letters from Rotuma Island said.

Try to Save Million Pounds of Fish

GLOUCESTER, June 23—While dealer representatives and union officials met today with the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration in Boston in an effort to end a week-old fish handlers' strike, desperate fishermen were trying to save an accumulated catch of more than a 1,000,000 pounds from spoiling.

While a number of draggers were reported to have dumped spoiling catches at sea the Rosalie Moore disposed of her entire catch of $5,000 pounds for fertilizer.

Other fishermen unloaded their own fish and processed them, while some were able to sell their fish to the handful of dealers who have already signed new contracts with the Seafood Workers Union (ILA).

Rome's Last Fascist Leader Arrested

ROME, June 23 (AP)—The Italian press reported today police had arrested Giuseppe Pizzirani, Rome's last Fascist boss and vice-secretary of Mussolini's final Fascist Republican Party, in a drive against a new neo Fascist network, which authorities said was composed mostly of students.

FRANKFURT TO BE REBUILT

BERLIN, June 23 (AP)—The American military government has disclosed a plan to rebuild Frankfurt as the economic capital of the British-American zones under a project employing 8000 men and calling for the repair of 1000 dwelling units to house 15,000 German employees of bizonal agencies.

Pepper, Ex-Foe of Truman, Leads Fight Against Labor Bill

By DAVID SENTNER
Boston Evening America Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, June 23—Sen. Pepper of Florida, Leftwing New Dealer, has been permitted to lead the Administration fight on the Senate floor to sustain the presidential labor bill veto.

The new role of the pro-Soviet senator stands out in sharp contrast to his public parliamentary attacks on the foreign policy of the President.

Pepper previously had been persona non grata at the White House due to his bitter opposition to the vice-presidential nomination of Harry Truman at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

The presidential veto of the labor bill is generally considered a political appeasement gesture to Wallace and his radical adherents as well as to the leadership of organized labor.

The assignment of Pepper to conduct the last-ditch battle to sustain the presidential veto to be decided today on a Senate roll call creates somewhat of a political precedent.

It involves the virtual stepping aside of Sen. Barkley of Kentucky, Democratic leader in the Senate.

Sen. Barkley, although he voted originally against the labor bill as any good Senate Administration leader would do, has publicly frowned on the filibustering tactics of Sen. Pepper and other leftist New Dealers.

USS Providence
Coming to Hub

The USS Providence, the Navy's newest cruiser, is coming to Boston for the local celebration of John Paul Jones Day commemorating the 200th anniversary of the Revolutionary War hero's birth, and will be open to public inspection Sunday at the Navy Yard.

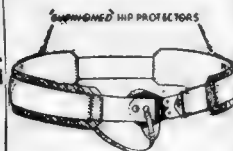

Commissioned at Fore River May 15, 1945, a week after Germany surrendered, the new Providence bears the same name as the sloop of war sailed by John Paul Jones on the Delaware river in 1775.

The cruiser, flagship of R. Adm. George C. Dyer, has a crew of 1200.

Solon Charges Training Foes 'Toying With Fate of Nation,

By DAN MARKEL

Boston Evening America Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 23—House majority leaders were blamed today for a move in Congress to block further hearings on universal military training.

"I personally know they don't intend to have any action on UMT this session," Rep. F. Edward Hebert, (D.) of Louisiana, a member of the House armed services committee, asserted. "That will be toying with the fate of the nation."

Herbert's accusation of plans to block UMT followed reports that majority House Whip Leslie C. Arends (R.) of Illinois and other congressmen want the issue deferred until next year.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr. (R.) of Massachusetts, said he had not talked to Arends and denied the majority leadership is bringing any pressure on the committee.

Herbert called for regular and continued hearings and for a vote on UMT before Congress adjourns.

"As Fr. (Edmund A.) Walsh told the committee when he testified on the urgent need of a training program: 'The Politburo in Moscow isn't adjourning for the summer,'" Herbert said.

The Louisiana congressman also challenged Republican statements that UMT may be shelved to take up terminal leave pay legislation.

"That's dropping a couple of crocodile tears for election purposes," he exclaimed.

Col. John Thomas Taylor, national American Legion legislative director, said:

"I know there are back-handed attempts to scuttle hearings on universal military training, but they won't succeed."

Taylor predicted hearings will resume on UMT Friday.

Mystery Man Gives Hint Of Solving Socialite Killing

ATLANTA, Ga., June 23 (INS)

State officers joined county police today in an attempt to find a man who reportedly bragged in a Savannah, Ga., hotel that he knew who killed Atlanta socialite Margaret Alston Refoule.

The man was said to have told a woman that he knew the identity of the sex-slayer of the comely wife of artist Fau. Refoule of Orleans, France.

BALDNESS

YOU Can make the CHOICE!

John Kazman Chose HAIR

BALDNESS is a matter of choice. Continue to neglect your scalp and you choose baldness. Give it proper attention—as did John Kazman (pictured above) and you choose hair. Mr. Kazman's hair loss resulted from a serious case of alopecia areata. Within four months after he was accepted for Thomas treatment his bald spot was completely filled in with strong new hair.

Perhaps the condition which is causing your loss of hair may not be as serious as was Mr. Kazman's. Regardless as to the cause, it will surely lead you to baldness unless you promptly take steps to correct it. Thomas treatment can help you, too—just as it helped Mr. Kazman—to overcome dandruff, stop abnormal hair fall and promote hair growth on thin and bald spots. Call today for a free scalp examination. Choose hair—not baldness! Scalp examination, consultation, and treatments are always given in private.

N. H. Girl Injured In Plane Ground-Loop

PROVIDENCE, June 23.—Knocked unconscious when a light plane in which she was riding crashed on landing at the airfield here, Irma V. Messer of Bradford, N. H. was under treatment for a possible broken leg at Cape Cod Hospital in Hyannis today.

The plane ground-looped, causing extensive damage, but a fire was prevented when the pilot, Dr. Arthur F. Wright, 40, also of Bradford, turned off the ignition. The pair were flying here to meet Dr. Wright's family, who drove from Bradford.

Suddenly it's young again

PROBABLY that faithful Buick of yours still can show a clean pair of heels to other cars on the road — probably still rides and runs like a charm. It makes you realize how wise you were to have picked a Buick in the first place.

Even though time always takes a toll, Buicks do carry their years well. They can keep their eagerness to go, their light-hearted gait and gentle comfort — particularly when they are rewarded with the considerate care that Buick dealers know how to provide. It's care that brings out your car's youthful spirit — care that lets you feel that suddenly it's young again.

Buick car care is something far different from what's regularly called service. It's something that only a Buick man can give.

Because he is trained in all the needs and preferences of Buicks. The tools he uses are the right Buick tools. And any replacement part your car may need is a Buick-engineered part.

So it's easy to see why your car is so ready to give you its best when it receives regular Buick car care — care by men who know Buicks through and through and love them heart and soul.

BUICK CARE
KEEPS BUICKS BEST

THIS WORM TURNS A BIG CAR

A Buick steers with a finger touch. Part of the secret is a stream of 66 steel balls that circle the worm on the steering column. With these balls there is so little friction that steering is feather-light — so little wear that the gear stays taut and firm without frequent take-ups.

Your Buick dealer lubricates this gear with just the lubricant Buick intended. Anything heavier would make steering stiff in winter — anything lighter fails to give full protection against wear.

It's another instance of how Buick care keeps Buicks best. And the same holds true in whatever your car needs — lube job, tune-up, major or minor repair.

Catholic Church Canonizes Three as 50,000 Attend Rite

By MICHAEL CHINIGO

ROME, June 23 (INS)—Pope Pius XII added three names to the Catholic Church's "Golden Calendar of Saints" in colorful ceremonies canonizing two Italians and a Portuguese.

More than 50,000 persons jammed St. Peter's for the rites honoring Portugal's martyred John de Brito and Italy's Joseph Cafasso and Bernardino Realine. Eighteen Cardinals and 80 archbishops and bishops participated.

Pope Pius delivered a homily highlighted by the religious achievements on earth of St. John de Brito and St. Bernardino Realine, who were Jesuits, and of St. Joseph Cafasso's simple pastoral life.

In concluding, the Pontiff called upon the clergy—particularly the missionaries—through the world to follow the examples of the newly-canonized in caring for souls.

The Holy Father also urged all Catholics to "strive for Christian perfection."

Rev. Carl Heath Kopf Accepts Washington Call

After 14 years as pastor of St. Vernon Church, Rev. Carl Heath Kopf is resigning to accept a call to the First Congregational Church in Washington.

He announced he had hoped to remain at the local church for "many more years, but after careful study and earnest prayer I believe the call comes from God to a larger and harder work than I have ever known."

Going home by telephone made easier year by year

CALLING up family or friends by long distance today is almost as simple and easy a matter as telephoning someone in your own neighborhood.

What's made possible the year by year improvement you experience in long distance calling? Constant telephone research in Bell Laboratories, new and improved equipment turned out at Western Electric, better operating methods, the high standards of public service held by telephone people... all have contributed.

Progress is continuing, too. New devices permit the handling of more calls simultaneously on one circuit. Nation-wide operator dialing is on the way. Radio beams now carry long distance messages across water, and will soon supplement the busy wire circuits between Boston and New York.

In this year of the Centennial of Alexander Graham Bell, we're doing our utmost to live up to the oldest tradition in the telephone business—sparing no effort to make telephone service always better tomorrow than it is today.

Q—How can peonies be kept for cut flowers? Ours do not last for more than a day.

A—To get good results with peonies as a cut flower, first plan to cut them before they are in full bloom. Then split the stems about 4 inches from the bottom and you will have better luck.

Q—You claim that the rototiller type of plow does not give good results. We have used it with success for a number of years.

A—Preparing land with the roto-tiller is just as good as or better than other methods, especially for small gardens. The only thing I want to impress on home gardeners is they must realize that land prepared in this way must be tilled, or allowed to settle, before good germination can be expected.

Q—Is there any way to get rid of scale on lilacs? Our bushes are being killed.

A—Lilac scale is common insect. Spray at once with nicotine sulphate, 1½ teaspoons to the gallon of water. Apply a second spray about Aug. 10 to control a possible second generation.

Q—Will tomato plants come back that have been severely damaged by the flea beetle?

A—With good growing conditions the plants should survive this attack. Side dress with complete fertilizer and spray with copper arsenate or copper rotenone dusts to control early blight.

WE MUST BE STRONG

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, MONDAY, JUNE 23, 1947

LT-GEN. J. LAWTON COLLINS, information chief of the U. S. War Department, presented an airtight case in behalf of the universal military training program in his recent speech before the Reserve Officers' Association in Miami.

Soviet Russia, said General Collins, is not only CAPABLE of putting two hundred combat divisions in the field in the event of any military emergency, but actually "has them in the field RIGHT NOW."

In addition, Russia's satellites in Europe could provide another one hundred combat divisions.

By way of contrast, he emphasized, there are only ten divisions in the whole United States Army.

General Collins was not making a case against Russia in his comment on these military statistics, but as he tersely said:

"I simply cite them as examples of the fact that WE are TERRIBLY WEAK."

"In all sincerity and logic, we must review OUR situation NOW."

"And take the necessary steps to meet what might HAPPEN to us."

WHATEVER ELSE Russia's mighty military organization represents, it is the ONLY armed establishment in the world today of sufficient size to pose the threat of WORLD DOMINATION.

And, as General Collins reminded the Miami convention:

"The past two wars should have PROVED that we are the major military power that would have to be DEFEATED before ANY nation could dominate the world."

This is the most compelling argument for universal training in the United States that has been advanced.

It is neither desirable nor practicable for the United States to attempt to MATCH the permanent professional armies of Russia and her satellites with comparable American armed forces.

Neither the American Government nor the American people WANT to keep two or three hundred divisions of combat troops perpetually in the field, nor could we AFFORD to do so even if we had the available manpower.

Such a military organization could only be maintained in the United States at the EXPENSE and to the DETRIMENT of our normal and productive peacetime economy, from which we derive the prosperity and happiness of our people.

Accordingly, the only OTHER means we have of maintaining a military COUNTERPART of the vast Russian combat organization is that which universal military training would provide—a trained and disciplined and competent MILITARY RESERVE OF MILLIONS OF MEN.

Not diverted from their productive occupations in time of peace, but instantly available for fundamental and essential military service in the event of sudden war.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE are exceedingly fortunate in the fact that they do not HAVE to maintain professional armies on the Russian scale in order to be safe, and of course the American people would not consent to their maintenance for any other purpose—aggression and conquest not being American objectives.

But if we reject the universal training program or permit Congress to do so we will simply be making one of our oldest and worst mistakes all over again—for as General Collins said:

"This was one of the mistakes made prior to Pearl Harbor."

Universal training is the most EFFECTIVE instrument we can adopt for national safety.

It is an entirely DEMOCRATIC means for the safeguarding of peace and security.

So to give each man his due,

Let her quickly change from me
Then to change am I as free.

WHAT MAJOR CITY hotel has been the longest in operation? How about the Broadway Central Hotel in New York city? That was an old hotel when my father was a gay young blade. Over 75 years old, it is still doing business at the same old stand, in the original building. The National Baseball League was organized in the Broadway Central in 1876. It was on the grand stairway of this hotel in 1872 that Edward S. Stokes shot and killed James F. Fiak, president of the Erie Railroad, in a quarrel over Josie Mansfield, actress.

ALLERGIC TO BRUNETTES—A young Chicagoan, who usually felt fine, became sick on two occasions when he called upon a beautiful brunette resident of Evanston, Ill. Subsequently, he called on a charming brunette in Chicago and again became sick. The young fellow was worried. He thought he BUS DRIVERS—Note it reported bus drivers in some cities are paid $1.38 cents an hour. To me it doesn't seem a cent too much. A bus driver does the work of two men. It is one of the world's hardest and most nerve-wracking jobs. Consider what the bus skipper has to do: take fares, make change, give transfers, open and shut doors, try to persuade the passengers to move toward the rear, call out streets and answer a thousand questions, many of them foolish. One-man operation of buses should be illegal. It is cruelty to bus drivers.

BATHING SUITS—What do you think of those print bathing trunks for men? They may be the style on the beach at Waikiki but they look a little bit too much on the duck-wucky side to me. I'm sticking to the old reliable navy blue trunks. Incidentally, now that I know how I look in a bathing suit, I am not satisfied. A little reduction in the middle section seems necessary. I have cut out the oatmeal and cream for breakfast and have taken up handball again.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, King Features Syndicate

NEW YORK, June 23—Louis L. Horch, the regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce for New York and New Jersey, by appointment of Henry Wallace, testified that he first met Prof. Nicholas Roerich, the Russian mystic, orientalist and painter, in New York in 1922.

Horch then was worth about $1,500,000, amassed as a foreign exchange broker and speculator.

Roerich took him to inspect his art school in unattractive quarters in a poor neighborhood and invited him and Mrs. Horch to back the school financially.

This testimony was given in court proceedings in New York in 1936 after Horch and Henry Wallace had broken with Roerich and while Roerich was still in Asia collecting grass seed for the Department of Agriculture at Wallace's request.

FROM THE TESTIMONY it appears that Horch was at once a zealot of a religion which he did not understand, but still a practical financier.

He put more than $1,100,000 into Roerich's program, including the lamasey on Riverside Drive, where the priests and priestesses of the cult were to enjoy free living quarters for life, and into Roerich's explorations in Tibet.

He did this with hearty devotion to the philosophy of the old Guru, who has a countenance of Oriental cast and affects Chinese dress.

In one letter introduced in evidence, he wrote that he and "Porooma," which was his wife's mystical name, considered it "the greatest privilege and honor" to pay $500,000 for some of Roerich's paintings.

"It was our joy," he wrote, "to be able to give, without a thought of ever receiving back the principal or interest. It would take books and books to write in them what we received."

AFTER HE LOST a great deal of money he and Wallace fell out with Roerich. Horch then went to court to get control of the lamasey. A bitter fight ensued between Horch and the faithful.

He won the lawsuit. Even at the dizzy height of his infatuation, Horch was shrewd enough to advocate a publicity campaign to build up Roerich and himself in the public mind.

He revealed a desire to be an important fellow in culture and art. On Aug. 11, 1924, he wrote to Roerich and Mme. Roerich, as "my dearest mother and father," remarking that their standing had grown since the museum had been opened in their honor.

"And now," he added, "if you take me with you and introduce me you can easily see what solidity and standing it will give me."

ON DEC. 8, 1936, from Paris, he wrote to fellow disciples in New York, criticizing an article about Roerich and his cult in a musical publication.

"It was wrong," he wrote, "to say 'exhibitions were given by many of our pupils and one was given by Nicholas Roerich.' Why not say 'the crowning event of the season was an exhibition by Roerich?' Always glorify the master institution and our Guru. They must always be spoken of in the highest possible terms. If we don't speak in exalted terms about these creations of our beloved master, who will?"

Then Horch added a not excessively subtle plug for L. L. Horch.

"Instead of L. L. Horch, financier and president," he wrote, "Put L. L. Horch, financier, man of big vision, etc., etc., he is president of the institution."

HORCH SAID a few days ago that he now had so little money that he really needed his government salary as a regional chief of the Department of Commerce.

In his testimony he said, "I was very much interested in art and culture all my life," and indicated that this interest was stimulated by his youthful studies in Mannheim, Germany. He comes from New Orleans.

In 1934, when Roerich was preparing to go to Mongolia and China for the Department of Agriculture, Horch had conversations with Roerich. In his testimony two years later he said, "Roerich expected to be head of Siberia."

By "head of Siberia" he meant ruler of some kind.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT was vexed by Roerich's conduct in Japan and Manchukuo, and Wallace was blamed for his activity.

"Do you recall writing on March 14, 1934: 'Father told us of the plans for the future?'" Horch was asked.

"Yes," he said. "He spoke of Siberia and the whole future. One of his plans was that he was going to be head of Siberia."

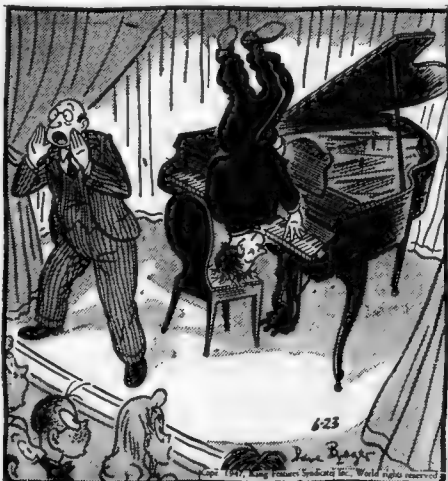

The Guru letters, done in a handwriting strongly similar to Wallace's own, resemble in mystical tone many of Horch's letters to Roerich.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 23—The New York millionaire who was wooing Gene Tierney so ardently must be getting discouraged for she is everywhere, but everywhere, with her ex, Oleg Cassini. I bet one of the shows they have seen more than once is "Chicken Every Sunday"—and here's why: Darryl Zanuck has just handed Gene the star role in this and Oleg will design all her clothes as per usual.

Adding dumplings to the chicken set up—Elizabeth Taylor has been borrowed from MGM to play Gene's daughter and Dan Dailey is the hero. Wait till you see this boy in "Mother Were Tights." He's going up, up, up.

This is another one of those movies that won't be filmed in Hollywood. Production starts in Carson, City, Nev., around the end of July with William Perlberg producing and George ("Miracle of 34th Street") Seaton directing.

BING CROSBY can enjoy his vacation on the ranch with his four boys in peace, knowing he's getting an excellent cast for his next picture, "Connecticut Yankee." I particularly feel that Sir Cedric Hardwicke is a great choice for King Arthur. And Patric Knowles, who is so attractive in "Ivy," is equally all right as Sir Lancelot. I share an admiration for Pat with a girl friend of mine. She thinks he's wonderful—I do, too. He'll be very handsome as the romantic Sir Lancelot.

Henry Gunberg gave me this news just before he took the train for New York, and he was very pleased with the setup.

WHAT GOES with "There Goes Lona Henry?" There is certainly a difference of opinion about whether Veronica Lake is still playing "Lona" and whether her husband, Andre De Toth, is still set to direct.

But Polan Banks, author and co-producer with James E. Cassidy, telephoned to say that, far from having his pet story up the creek, he has just ticketed Don Ameche for the male lead and Veronica and De Toth are still very much "in."

"There's been a lot of sniping at our production—none of it true," Banks said.

I AM WONDERING if Betty Davis will make "The Two Worlds of Johnny Truro," the sensational novel by George Sklar, even though it has been put on her calendar as one that Henry Blanke will produce.

It's very comfortable and will need to be whitewashed completely before it is put on the screen. I don't know how it can be changed very much without taking away the idea.

Johnny Truro, a young boy, has a hectic affair with a married woman and leaves her flat. Betty already has on her list "Winter Meeting," "The Return of a Soldier," "Ethan Frome" and "The African Queen," all of which Blanke is supposed to produce. Wouldn't that bring "Johnny Truro" way up to 1949—or would it?

THE MURDER of Bugsy Siegel was the closest that Hollywood ever came to one of gangland's killings.

Cousine Dorothy Di Frasso introduced the underworld chieftain as a wealthy playboy. But it wasn't until it became known that he was actually a pal of Lucky Luciano, that the people who met Bugsy dropped him like a hot potato.

Not many people knew that Dorothy introduced her strange acquaintance to certain crowned heads in Europe and to some titled gentry in England—all of whom found him completely charming.

It was at this time that Bugsy's advisors told him he was getting into the columns too often. So, hard as the social bug had hit him, he decided to drop it all—including Dorothy.

THE HEDY LAMARR John Loder legal battle will be a hot one!

Hedy has promised to file suit for divorce Tuesday and John has engaged Greg Bautzer as his attorney to fight for his rights.

John said I misunderstood him when I printed he had signed away community property rights.

"I signed those away when I married Hedy," he said. "The paper I did sign was one she gave me in which I agreed to pay her for my board and expenses during the time I was unemployed. I agreed to give her money that will tie me up for four years, but I was so eager to be back with her and my children, that I agreed to anything."

Today Greg Bautzer said he will demand that Hedy pay John the money she received when he sold his automobile and that he be allowed to see the children.

WHO DO YOU think turned up when Paramount advertised for any and everybody who was ever connected with the original "Perils of Pauline"? Milton Berle, no less. At the age of five he played a part with Pearl White, Sidney Blackmer, the actor, was another who reported in, now 72 and lives in New Jersey. Woods was a stunt man and doubled for Pearl White, but he didn't go to Hollywood when the movies moved here, because he didn't think they could possibly last.

Tuesday, Paramount is having a preview and taking these guests to luncheon in New York.

JOHNNY ALVIN the young Warner leading man who married Skippy Lewis last Wednesday, is confined to his bed indefinitely with a heart condition. The attack occurred just before the wedding reception.

The doctors tell Johnny he will be all right if he remains perfectly quiet for at least six weeks.

MRS. TOMMY DORSEY is back in town and weary unto death of wearing jewels, furs, and living the life of Riley. She wants to work and she's going out and get herself a movie job, she says.

She has a legal separation from Tommy, and she gets a hunk of dough from him, but she says that's not enough. She craves to return to the screen.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Pat Smart is back in town with Spencer Martin by her side. He is crazy about the lovely Pat. If she'll but say yes, they will be married. But so far she hasn't said it.

Rita Hayworth, according to a letter from Europe, has seen a great deal of Ted Stauffer, former band leader and estranged husband of Faith Dorn. Muriel Bradley, former secretary to Henry Le Roy, has written a book called "Affair at Ritos Bay," which Doubleday Doran is publishing. Understand she has had several nibbles from the movies.

A very hot romance in New York is that of Simone Simon and Paul Baron. He's the orchestra leader husband of Wendy Russell, and he will be her ex-husband any day now.

Clark Gable has gone to Oregon again to fish. He made up his mind in an hour and was off for the happy fishing ground.

Announcement that Joan Crawford was the highest paid actress last year with an income of $400,000, is an interesting Hollywood saga. Two years ago Joan was considered washed up. Amazing what one good picture can do.

Benay Venuta is back from New York from a visit with her mother-in-law, and she's telling her friends there'll be no divorce. Her mother-in-law talked her out of it.

A new and surprising twosome—Peggy Cummings and Eddie Fisher. And I thought his heart belonged to Jane Greer.

Mary Kirk Brown's latest escapade at Madison Square Garden has had a very sad result. Her mother, who hasn't been well, became very much worse and had to be rushed to a hospital.

Judy Adams expects to raise $50,000 for the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund when he opens at El Rancho Vegas in Las Vegas. Here's wishing him good luck. The Kathleen Winsor—Artie Shaw idyll, according to reports from New York, is all over.

The Cyril Rings celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary, and Cyril's sister, Mrs. Frances Meighan, gave a beautiful party to celebrate the happy event.

NEW YORK, June 23—Mae West has just about concluded a deal to appear in an English-made film . . . Paulette Goddard and Burgess Meredith (we hear from London) are gadding about like mad in the smoothest circles. Royalty, nobility and Diana Barrymore whatnot . . . Dana Barrymore threw the lebanite department of a Fifth Ave. store into a turmoil the other day. Such language—and such manners! They asked her to leave . . . Dick Aldrich's Capa Playhouse at Dennis is getting very fancy-schmancy for an alleged strawhat palace. They're having no less than Robert Edmond Jones do the costumes for Lillian Gish when she plays Noel Coward's "The Marquise" next month . . . Helen Forrest, the vocalist, and Paul Hogan, film actor, will stage their aisle-waltz in the near future . . . The most aptly named press agent in the business is the fellow who's doing publicity for the summer pageant, "The Lost Colony." His name is Hoke Norris . . . Laraine Day, determined to conduct her life in the most dignified fashion to counteract the recent unpleasant publicity, is refusing to pose for any leg art for her new film, "Champagne for My Body" . . . Robert Young, James Stewart and Gary Cooper are the three most often mentioned for the role of Henry Ford in the screen biography of the motor magnate.

WASHINGTON, June 23—His Gaelic Excellency Sean Numan, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from Ireland, is fuming around in the most ironic predicament an Irishman ever faced. He can't declare his presence here because he hasn't been okayed by the King of England.

Mr. Numan has been the Emerald Isle's E.E. and M.P. since last March but he can't call upon President Truman or State Sec. Marshall to notify them he is here because George VI hasn't come through with his credentials.

The reason for the delay is that His Britannic Majesty, may 'eaven bless 'im, has been gadding around South Africa instead of sticking in Buckingham Palace attending to his Kinging. And while the monarch that all good Irishmen cherish least has been chasing Kafirs over the veldt and potting a few water buffalo, Ireland's representative has had to hide and skulk in diplomatic anonymity.

The is doubly tough on an Irishman, which Mr. Numan certainly is. His first name "Sean" is Gaelic for "John" and is pronounced "Shawn." The original Gaelic spelling of Numan was "Nunon." He knows he is no relation to Joseph D. Numan, Jr., retiring commissioner of internal revenue because they traveled through Ireland together a couple of years ago looking for kin. Minister Numan's relatives were vehement in denying relationship to tax collector Numan and vice versa, making it a typical Irish-get-together.

Incidentally, I do not know whether Comr. Numan is wise to this but his right name is "Seosamh Numan." It's a Seosamh, old kid!

BUT THE THING that really gets Minister Numan's Irish up is that he has been trying to tell Americans for a long time that George VI has nothing to do with Ireland; that he has as much power there as the Grand through. The papers have arrived—so Mr. Numan can come out of hiding and face the President and Secretary of State, meaning the Shawn will come up like thunder outa China across the bay.

OSWALD RYAN, vice chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, went to New York to make a Godspeed address to the editors and publishers about to take off on a round-the-world flight. It was very warm so he divested himself of coat and other impediments.

His own plane was waiting nearby so he summoned a steward and told him to put the things, together with his luggage, aboard. After bidding bon voyage to the editors he clambered aboard his plane and asked for his coat. He then learned that the steward had been under a slight misapprehension—and all his belongings except the few he had on his back were on their way around the world.

Mr. Ryan had to come back to Washington coatless without even a handkerchief. And his feelings were not assuaged when he received a wire from Istanbul.

"Your luggage standing the trip nicely."

NAVY CAPT. WILLIAM FETZER of Sec. Forrestal's office appeared before the House judiciary committee the other day and read a prepared paper that the Navy urged continuing export controls on tin and antimony as vital to the military.

The committee thanked him politely—and he repacked his briefcase and departed. Late in the day, however, the chairman phoned:

"It was very nice of you to come before us—but who insisted you?"

It turned out that Capt. Fetzer had been due at a Senate sub-committee—which had been muttering all afternoon about having him brought in by force if he refused to come voluntarily.

Anyway, Capt. Fetzer found the right capital.

These Days

HERBERT HOOVER and Bernard Baruch have emphasized the same point, namely, that what we are giving away is not money but irreplaceable natural resources upon which the future of this country depends. For two years, in this column, I have been repeating this theme from every possible angle, often I feared to the distress of the reader who might have assumed that whenever I have nothing else to write about I return to this one subject.

The fact is that nothing can be of greater importance. For should our iron go as our copper has gone, should our oil go as our wood pulp has gone, the nature and character of our institutions, even of our life, will be altered. This has undeniably moved Senators Vandenberg and Byrd to recognize the need for exact knowledge.

Freedom cannot thrive in scarcity. We have, during the past decade, noticed the whittling away of human freedom because of a man-made scarcity. Imagine what it would happen to us if our scarcity were due to a permanent lack of resources, to empty mines, to wells that spout no oil, to farms that have gone as primitive as those of China or Arabia because the iron is lacking to build agricultural machinery.

Is this an exaggeration? Is this too gloomy a picture? Have I become a Jeremiah singing a dirge of prospective woe? And why should we worry so much about the future? Science will discover substitutes. Have the scientists not split the atom? Can they not make something from nothing?

I DO NOT KNOW. Herbert Hoover and Bernard Baruch do not know. Harry Truman does not know.

Wise men say: Let us take an inventory of what we possess. We have been pouring our God-given wealth into a bottomless abyss. We are manufacturing for destruction. We sent our iron and steel, our copper and aluminum, our lead and zinc to every part of the earth. With a profligacy unknown in history we gave away our heaven-granted riches. And when war was over some of our stores were recklessly burned or cast into the sea by military men accustomed only to destruction. And then we sold for next to nothing stores of supplies that we may some day need.

And we have not taken count. We have no balance sheet. We do not know what is left. Shall we tell our grandchildren and great-grandchildren, when they lack, that we, in our generation, scattered our irreplaceable wealth because we had not the common sense to hoard and save for them?

FOR INSTANCE, the United States Navy has ordered stringent curbs because of an oil shortage. There is constant talk of renewed oil rationing because of shortages. Oil men say that the domestic demand outruns the supply. Yet at the same time oil tankers are loading on the Pacific Coast to ship 700,000 barrels of oil for Russia. In the first half of 1947, the United States will have shipped 33,000,000 barrels of oil; 772,000 of which will have gone to Soviet Russia—a country that is now in possession of a tremendously great oil reserve. The excuse is that it is cheaper to ship to Vladivostok from the United States than from any Russian oil field. But is it sound for us?

IN 1946, this country shipped 2,500,000 barrels of oil to Russia; 130,000,000 to all countries. In 1945, we exported 5,000,000 to Russia out of a total of 162,000,000 to all countries. Can we afford these exports?

Hoover and Baruch do not believe that we can continue to give away $3,000,000,000 of our natural wealth a year for any prolonged period. They indicate that our high prices are due to buying for the accounts of foreign governments who have borrowed money from us never to be repaid. They have asked for an inventory.

Why does not Congress appoint a commission, properly staffed with an adequate appropriation, to make this inventory of our possession, our current position, our economic prospects? For this commission, I nominate Herbert Hoover, Bernard Baruch and Karl Compton. From such a commission we can get the truth. No matter what the politics of it may be, meant Leominster instead of Spencer was not determined immediately. Wheatley let it pass and Defense Atty. Eben G. Townes said nothing.

Cote Trial

"She told me he had one of my new cars the night before and he was driving one of my new cars today. I told her it was my wife's car. She said you'd better get in touch with the police, he's liable to be in Canada or some other place."

Earle said Mrs. Cote then asked if he knew that he had one of the garage cars the preceding summer in Canada and that he told her he was aware of it. He said he was surprised when she told him her husband made the trip without her.

The witness testified he called her a second time at a number she had left for him to contact her that evening. He testified she again asked about police and that he told her to forget about police.

In cross-examination, the witness denied he had discharged or considered firing Cote and that this day he had found no shortage in the garage books.

Possibility that Cote was engaged in black market operations in autos was then injected into the case but Wheatley's objection that line of questioning for the time.

Earle denied ever saying Cote was $8000 short in his accounts. He also denied any conversation after the murder in which he said: "What can you expect—you can't run around with a fan dancer without having something happen to you."

He likewise asserted that he never had accused Cote of taking his car and $2000. Wheatley asked if Townes intended to produce evidence to taint effect and Judge Felix Forte allowed the conversation to continue when the defense attorney asserted he would.

On the evening of her telephone conversation with Earle, Mrs. Cote went out to play cards with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bertocci of

Carl ave., Brockton, after telling a neighbor that the police were looking for her husband "because of a shady transaction involving money."

Cote eventually returned to Brockton with Mrs. Earle's car shortly before midnight and after leaving it at the garage, went to his home in the third-floor apartment at 72 Harvard st.

His wife arrived home a few minutes after him. There was some conversation, and he went to bed on the divan in the living-room, she in her bedroom.

About 4:05 a. m., Cote was bludgeoned to death and strangled.

Mrs. Cote again ascribed her husband's troubles to business transactions, declaring a man came in the apartment—the lock on the door being broken—and kind him after demanding the return of $1300.

But the police learned of her husband's roving eye and wayward feet. In his locker at the garage they found photographs of a dancer, and on the pictures were these inscriptions:

"To you, Rene dear, with love always. Barbara."

"To Rene with all the best wishes in the world. To the nicest and sweetest person I know. Barbara."

"Here's looking right at you, dear. All the best in the world to you. To my very nicest guy, love. Barbara."

Letters also were found. The dancer was questioned. She said Cote told her that he was single.

In one of her stories to police, Mrs. Cote named Walter Steele, 24, Brockton mechanic, as her husband's slayer. She said she and Steele had been out on "dates," together, but added that Steele attacked her husband in an argument over a business transaction. Steele, a young Brockton automobile salesman, who was one of the pallbearers who carried Cote's body to its grave in St. Michael's Cemetery, Avon, denied both allegations, and was freed after being charged with murder.

Was the hand that was raised against Rene Cote actuated by jealousy, born of love, or was it actuated by revenge arising from a black market or other automobile deal?

The State is not required to prove a motive. Nevertheless, Wheatley will try to establish one, and defense Atty. Eben G. Townes will try just as hard to disestablish it.

After the chapter of motive, the chapter of jealousy, the prosecution has another phase, that of alleged display on the part of the comely 28-year-old defendant of "consciousness of guilt."

The witnesses in that phase are police officials to whom Mrs. Cote made statements, including her accusation of Steele, which will be related in detail to the jury by Brockton police stenographer Claire Cassidy.

Miss Cassidy's testimony is sure to be one of the trial highlights because it will tell of the exchange of remarks between Steele and Mrs. Cote as she doubly accused him. Miss Cassidy told it once before in Brockton district court, last January, when Steele was released and his accuser charged with husband-murder, after Mrs. Cote refused to testify.

The defendant yesterday telephoned from Plymouth County Jail, her home for nearly six months, to her mother in Spencer, asking for certain clothing so she can appear in court differently clad than in the black dress in which she looked so small at the opening of her trial.

She has worn the same dress throughout the first six days of the trial and it was reported that Atty. Townes and Edward Stevens thought she should continue to wear it. But womanly desire to "dress up" carried off the honors in this little difference of opinion.

Atty. Townes had enough honors.

TO READ NOTES

PLYMOUTH, June 23—Miss Claire Cassidy, Brockton police stenographer, is another woman witness expected to be called by the prosecution this week at the trial of Bertha Surprise Cote, it was learned today.

Miss Cassidy will submit the transcript of thousands of words taken down while police were questioning Mrs. Cote prior to the latter's arrest.

The record that some person "unknown turned off the lights in the Cote apartment after Mrs. Cote and her neighbor, Mrs. Alice Winberg, left it and before police arrived.

For a period of perhaps five minutes the body of Rene Cote lay in the front room, with no known person in the house. Mrs. Winberg, who had answered Bertha Cote's appeal for help, gone to the Cote flat, seen the body and telephoned police, said she returned downstairs with Mrs. Cote and Barbara Ann.

Lights were left on in the living room, and baby's bedroom, the kitchen and on the backstairs, declared Mrs. Winberg. But when police arrived, only the table lamp in the living room was on.

In the opinion of Atty. Townes, it is a reasonable inference that an intruder after killing Rene Cote, hid in the apartment and fled after the two women and the baby left. If not, who turned off the lights?

Novelist's Assailant Hangs Self in Cell

BAR HARBOR, Me., June 23—Temporary insanity, which led him to attack author Mary Roberts Rinehart with an ancient gun, was blained today for the death by suicide of Blas Reyes, 65, Filipino chef of the noted novelist for 25 years.

This was announced by police after the body of Reyes was found hanging in his cell at the police station. Earlier, he tried twice to shoot the 70-year-old writer, but failed.

"I was thinkin'..." by Izzy Ort

Dis is the time of the year when I put down my racin' form an' give the world an' general conditions the onct over to see whither are we goin'? It ain't a party plecter I'm lookin' at neither an' I can't understand how mankind has got hisself in such pickles. For example, one-third of the world is talkin' about fightin' Russia; the Chinese ain't stopped fightin' among themselves since the Japs gave in. India is threatenin' to bust up in its fight for independence; the French is fightin' in Indo-China as soon as the rains stop rainin' an' everythin' is in a heck of a mess! No wonder the government won't declare war is over it ain't! On the home front the prices of steaks is gettin' closer to jewelry every minute; the only thing a nickel will get nowadays is five pennies an' they ain't good for nuttin'! In my humble opinion, the world needs a rest; its neck is all shot. It should take a week off someplace like my Grille. Here, a workin' man or a banker, kin leave his cares outside the door and frolic to his heart's content an' for little money. At my prices, I offer everythin' for a good evenin' but a baby-sitter! Incidentally, my prices is goin' down, not up! The law of supply an' demand is workin' on the bias for me even though it's tough makin' a buck. Remember—the gayest, gay afternoon an' night spot in town is Ort's, 25 Essex St. Advt.

Smart Set Salem to Entertain

By BETTY ALDEN
SALEM WILL TURN BACK the pages of history to the days of the clipper ships on Wednesday of this week when 30 of the finest homes on Chestnut st. will be open to visitors from all over the country.

The wide elm lined street with its beautiful dwellings built and furnished by wealthy ship owners of a century ago will recreate scenes of bygone days with men, women and children in costume. Babies will be perambulated in antique carriages lent by historical societies and handsome gowns of India mull and China silk will come out of treasure chests to grace the pretty hostesses.

Mrs. Robert Bradford and her daughters, Anne and Becky, will be in costume as hostesses at Pickering mansion, occupied by the 10th generation of Pickering's. Their cousin, Mrs. James Moorish of London, will join the Bradfords in pointing out the architectural gems of Salem's golden period. Mrs. Richard Baker and daughters, Lucy and Barbara, debutante Corinne Benson, Mrs. Alfred Putnam, Faith Winsor, Millicent Nichols, Bunty Pickering and Mrs. Warren E. Day will also be hostesses at Pickering House.

Mrs. Frank Benson will welcome visitors to her lovely home which contains the portrait her distinguished artist husband painted of her in her bridal gown. The interior is shaded by elm trees planted by the original owner and the drawing room wears its original tea-chest paper.

Also hostesses on this festive day will be Mrs. Robert M. Barton at No. 15, Mrs. Henry Northey, Mrs. W. Sidney Felton, Mrs. Foster Rogers, and in the Phippen Garden Mrs. Harley Forsythe and Miss Josephine Price.

Tea will be served in three gardens ablaze with pink Chinese peonies brought from the Orient a century ago.

BARBARA STEVENSON, post-deb daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl P. Stevenson of Newton, was married Saturday to Albert E. Marshall Jr., of Providence at Eliot Church, Newton, with a reception at Brae Burn Country Club. The bride wore a gown of brocade she brought from India where she served with the Red Cross, a long tulle veil and carried Eucharis lilies and stephanotis.

Joan P. Stevenson was maid of honor and Alice Derby, a cousin of the bride, flower girl. The bridesmaids were Anne Swift of Sharon, Suzanne T. Pierce and Deborah Stevenson of Newton, Caroline Hillman of Grand Rapids, Mich., Elizabeth Strobbridge of Syracuse, and Mrs. John B. McKitterick of Hamden, Ct. They wore woods green faille with yellow and white flowers.

The bride graduated from Dana Hall in 1938 and Smith 1942. The groom is a Princeton '42 graduate.

FORMER POSTMASTER GENERAL AND MRS. JAMES A. FARLEY of New York announce the engagement of their daughter, Ann Ellen, who graduated from Wellesley last week. Her fiancé is Edward J. Hickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Hickey of Grose Point, Mich.

The bride-to-be made Ann Ellen Farley her debut in January, 1944, and attended Marymount and Miss Hewitt's classes. Mr. Hickey graduated from University of Notre Dame in 1942 and was a lieutenant in the Navy for three years with the amphibious forces. The wedding will take place in the fall.

ANOTHER WELLESLEY girl joining the ranks of future brides is Elinor Sylvester, whose mother, Mrs. Meldon M. Sylvester of Wellesley Farms, announces her engagement to Robert F. Holbrook of Boston.

Elinor attended Wellesley College and Old Colony School. Her fiancé served four years with the 31st Infantry Division in the Pacific.

This was announced by police after the body of Reyes was found hanging in his cell at the police station. Earlier, he tried twice to shoot the 70-year-old writer, but failed.

This continues to be the only annual concert series played six nights a week free of admission charge by members of a major symphony orchestra. Expenses are borne by the coins dropped into the program tables, by responses to an annual letter of appeal, and by a share of the chair rentals.

Rich Gingerbread Squares

By MARTHA LEE

(From the American Home Economics Ass'n Convention)

ST. LOUIS, June 23—The first really warm days of early summer call for a dessert keyed to the season. Something different in appearance, something appealing in texture and color, something unusual in flavor. And that's the time to serve tender, dark-toned gingerbread squares, topped with smooth whipped cream, and fruit for added color accent.

Gingerbread squares are easy to make and versatile. They can be served just about one hour from the start of mixing if you like them fresh from the oven. Or they can be made during an hour of leisure time, and served later. Squares may be cut large for generous servings, or small and dainty for a mid-afternoon dessert lunch.

Toppings are a matter of choice. But rich whipped cream spooned on top of the squares provides both flavor and color contrast. Team the whipped cream with a nutmeg-flecked orange segment, a row of strawberry slices, or a slice of peach for a caterer's touch.

The secret of delectable home baked gingerbread is in the rich blendings of spices, and in the lightness and tenderness of the squares. Cinnamon and ginger in equal amounts, plus a little nutmeg, makes a spicy flavor that is carried through each tender crumb.

GINGERBREAD SQUARES

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1 egg
1/2 cup molasses
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. ginger
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1/4 cup hot water

Cream shortening; add brown sugar and salt. Cream until fluffy. Add egg. Beat well, blend in molasses. Sift together flour, soda, and spices. Add alternately with hot water, adding flour first and last. Mix thoroughly. Rub an 8x8 1/2-inch loaf pan with shortening. Pour in batter. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 45 minutes. Serve warm or cool with whipped cream and orange sections, if desired. Makes 9 servings.

GINGERBREAD DESSERT

1 recipe for gingerbread
1 pkg. (3-oz.) cream cheese
1/2 tsp. salt
1 cup drained, crushed, canned apricots

1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
Prepare gingerbread. Mash cream cheese with fork, adding salt; stir in apricots and fold in cream; spread over warm gingerbread, or cut gingerbread in half, spreading cream mixture between halves and on top. Makes 9 servings.

GINGERBREAD UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

1 recipe for gingerbread
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1-3 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
7 halves cooked pears

Prepare batter for gingerbread. Melt butter in frying pan, or square or round pan, add brown sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved; arrange pear halves, hollow side down, in syrup. Cover with cake batter and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 40 minutes. Loosen cake from sides and turn out immediately on service plate; allow pan to rest over cake a few seconds so that syrup will drain on cake. Serve warm. Makes 7 servings.

CHEESE TOPPED GINGERBREAD

Make gingerbread. When baked, cover top with cream cheese whip, made by stirring milk into 1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese until of desired consistency; then whip until light and creamy. Serve at once.

New Cream Mask For Healthy Skin

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

IF, IN THE CARELESS game of type-casting, you're considered the outdoor type... a clinging vine... a career girl... a hothouse flower... an impish ingenue... or a sultry soubrette... don't lose any sleep over it. That kind of type-casting is as old-fashioned as a below-the-knee bloomer swim suit.

Today a girl can be any number of types all rolled into one... can have many facets to her personality... and express herself, as the mood and makeup move her. But there can be only one personality to the complexion... and that is perfection. Anything short of complexion perfection calls for criticism and not compliments.

Furthermore, how is a girl going to express her chosen personality pertinent to the occasion if her complexion is of the wall-flower variety... the drip and droop kind? Don't think men aren't keenly aware of a smooth facial expanse. Don't think they haven't eyes to see complexion faults. They'll make excuses for other shortcomings... but they don't sell a perfect complexion short. Nor should you.

DEEP-PORE ATTENTION

In this battle for beauty... and the beauty we mean doesn't necessarily rest with perfectly chiseled features... a clean, healthy skin is the battle half won. For a clean, healthy skin... all sorts of artifices may be applied to achieve the personality type you like best for yourself.

A clean, healthy, radiant skin needs more than the daily ablutions we give it. It needs periodic overhauls as well. It needs deep-pore attention which comes from a specially compounded, penetrating, stimulating cream if it is to bloom brilliantly. Even an automobile gets periodic checkup to keep it in good running order... so it can take to the open road without a breakdown. Do you think your skin can be ever beautiful unless it, too, gets at least a once or twice rehabilitating renovation?

NEW CREAM MASK

Such a poignant treatment comes only from the use of a cream mask. There is a new one on the market that adds up to a whole lot of facial fineness for the complexion that receives its sparkling ingredients. Cream it is and cream it remains... until removed... and the complexion emerges as soft and scintillating as a summer sunset.

SEEING IS BELIEVING and here is a little number for social doings in the country such as a Saturday night dance at the beach. Florence Pritchett whipped it up for only five dollars. She took four yards of Everfast pink chambray ($1.25 a yard)... and with her nimble fingers... turned out this two-piece off-the-shoulder dirndl dress. The blouse may also be worn with gray and pink striped shorts and a jacket. Note her Grecian clog sandal accessorization.—R. M.

Give your skin its daily dozen of beautifying aids... but once a week, anyway, give it the real works. Particularly in summer when we get a trifle lazy with our routine... when we snitch on the basics... we can't afford to deny the facial pelt a thorough going over that is only produced by a deep-pore, stimulating and penetrating mask for the complexion. This new one is pale-peach in color... smooths on readily... and goes to work the instant it contacts the skin.

When it is removed... you'll find a peaches-and-cream complexion to send your personality stock soaring to the high heavens. Then you can lift your face to his... listen to his sweet nothings... confident you'll find stardust in his eyes. Lonely nights won't be for you!

For the name of this new, soft-as-a-peach cream mask, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, any day except Sunday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tissue Gingham Dress

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

SHEER TISSUE gingham as fine as your pocket handkerchief comes to town in the lovely little dresses you will wear for your special parties this summer.

Down-to-earth gingham, all dressed up in fine fabrics and delicate color combinations, comes into the first rank of fashion wearing an air of surprise at finding itself in such good company. But the surprise is turned into drama when gingham is used for those special little cottons whose simplicity is only a mask for sophistication. Gingham shares charming little dresses designed by Claire Smith. It is made of sheer tissue gingham in red, blue, green or black checks. Its neckline is low and rounded. The full puffed sleeves with their wide ruffles are something special. The twirling skirt comes down to the new longer length. The dress is belted in narrow velvet ribbon that ties in a sash.

Ted Gets Trophy In Midst of His Worst Bat Slump

By AUSTEN LAKE

SO THEY GAVE TED WILLIAMS a trophy shaped like a silver pie-plate and engraved, "Most valuable, 1946" and the human rake-handle stooped over the nicked amplifier nozzle and spoke a few crisp words while the press cameras snapped their black boxes and the 34,813 parishioners pattered polite applause.

Ted had gone for goose-eggs in the opening game of Sunday's duplex bill between the Sox and the Indians and his bat-average had shriveled to a lean .287. He hadn't hit a home run since June 4 at St. Louis and his RBI was melting. So he didn't loiter to take any extra bows, even when a firm of gunsmiths presented a shiny revolver from commercial good will.

MAYBE I AM BEING INDELICATE at so festive a moment to ask the redundant question, "What ails Ted Williams?", since it takes no fluoroscope to see that he rarely lashes the ball with cocky authority that won him the degree of "batting genius" when he twice led his league. (.406 in 1941 and .356 in 1942 before going to war for two years.) Something is wrong! What?

Before the games I had sat with Joe Cronin in the coo of the Sox dugout, while Joe spoke in a tired whisper. Joe said he wished he knew! Maybe it was those bases on balls. Because, if the pitchers kept passing Ted at the current rate it would break Ruth's old record of 170 for the season (1923). To date Ted has drawn 74 in 55 games, a ratio, if continued, that would give him more than 200 for the season. And, as Joe said sagely, while squirting an amber jet between his teeth, "You don't knock in any runs with a base on balls."

That may be a small hunk of the answer. But it isn't all, since Ted accepts many, too many, good pitches that whistle through the slot without taking the bat from his shoulder. Cronin shrugged and said he thought that was so! And Ted, even when he swings, fouls off an unusual number of balls, which hints that his co-ordination—or the messages which fly between eye, mind and muscle, is out of kilter. Indeed, if it were not so early in the semester and, if Ted was not fielding with such unusual sharpness, one might say he was baseball weary. He looks languid—but only at the plate. For, curiously enough, as his hitting withers, his fielding—considered his weakness, has become almost brilliant.

A four-month-old prophecy seems fulfilled. Last mid-March Paul Waner and Heinie Manush, both batting connoisseurs, sat chin-chopping in the Sarasota Terrace. Said Paul to Heinie, "If Ted doesn't learn to hit to left, he won't bat .290 by July." Heinie agreed, "Swot I keep tellin'm." Last August in Detroit Harry Heilmann, the hitting wizard of his time, gave Ted another papa-talk to the same effect. Tris Speaker did it later at Cleveland. Perhaps a dozen of the game's ex-greats have given him the same counsel. I name only the ones that, to my own knowledge, did.

But to no avail, or at least not much! True, on rare occasions Ted has hit to left and tried to do so yesterday. But he has never schooled himself seriously, as witness his futile effort to chop the ball along the left side of the Indian's infield in Sunday's 4th inning (1st game). Twice he drooled foul, the ball trickling crazily off at right angles. The third time he dribbled over the pitcher's head to the Indian's third baseman and was thrown out at first by a step, only to have the first sacker drop the ball. Ted didn't know he was safe, bowing his chin dejectedly and starting for the dugout, when he was summoned back. It was an error, not a hit, and cost him another notch in his average—one of fifteen or more such rollers I have seen him hit this season, all of which would have gone safe had the opposition played him normally.

IT MAKES A FAIR DIAGNOSIS of what ails Williams. Either he cannot, or stubbornly refuses, to master the art of batting to left—this despite his liner in that direction in the sixth of the second game—directly into the fielder's hands. But next time he gave it up and grounded out to the gang.

Williams' trouble began to accumulate about eleven months ago when this same Cleveland team came to town and started the bizarre swing-shift to right. I talked with Manager Lou Boudreau about it before Sunday's games and he said wryly, "Yeh! I remember some of the Boston ball writers gave me the razzmatazz next day. Called it 'Boudreau's folly,' said it wouldn't work."

Well it worked! Better, Lou admitted, than even he anticipated, and has become a universally adopted measure to keep Ted unhappy. From that moment, eleven months ago, his batting miseries began to fester gradually until, by mid-August, they were a rankling sore from which he has not yet recovered. He is still valuable, in terms of his reputed $75,000 per annum contract, but far from "most valuable."

Withal, and to Boston's great credit, Williams has been little less than first in the hearts of our citizens, who have voted him first in the All-Star list of players and greeted him with anticipatory roars, except for a faint but plainly audible gulping in a baritone tone like the honkings of wild geese flying over the autumn moors on their annual Southern retreat. Until Sunday evening when, accuracy bids me report, Ted got a larger portion of hollow hoots than cheers on his last time at bat. It may begin a trend!

Sox Must Hit Faster Gait To Repeat Pennant Win

By HERB FINNEGAN

How many games must the Red Sox or Yanks win to clinch the A. L. pennant? "Between 90 and 95," say the Red Sox who last year won it by a 12-game margin with 104. "It may be as low as 85 or 88," said Cleveland manager Lou Boudreau before berding his Indians to New York. "The A's and Browns have made this race," he said. "There isn't a soft touch in the league, and unless some club gets awfully hot soon, it will be a tug-of-war all the way."

Yanks were leading the A. L. race today with 35 victories, 24 defeats for a percentage of .593.

Red Sox, who opened a three-game series with Detroit here today, were second with 31-24 .564.

If the Sox are to win the 95 games this season, they must win 64, lose 35 of their remaining 99 games, a .646 pace.

If they are to win 90, they must win 59, lose 40, a .596 pace.

If they need only 88 victories to repeat their '46 championship, they must proceed at a .576 pace—57 wins against 42 losses.

But from the way the Yanks have been stepping out of late—selling good pitching and robust hitting, it would seem as if the Sox will have to win 95 games to beat them out, and that means they'll have to play .646 ball from here in, a faster gait than they've shown to date. Can they do it?

They've been hot of late. They had won eight in a row until Cleveland cooled their heels Friday night. They tarred and feathered Bob Feller Saturday, and they split Sunday's double header with the same Indians, 2-8 and 6-3.

One thing in their favor: they've still got 52 games to play at home, to 47 on the road. Their home record is 16-8, a .687 pace. Their road record is 15-16, a .484 pace. If they continue to play .667 ball at home, .484 ball on the road, they'll win 35 more games at home, lose 17, they'll win 23 on the road, lose 24. That would bring them a total of 89 victories against 65 defeats.

Browns won the '44 pennant with 89-65, and Detroit won a year later with 88-65. Maybe the '47 pennant will be won with less than 90 games, as Boudreau is inclined to believe, but the Yanks look like a sure-shot to win 90 because they're not only setting the pace now but are only beginning to roll.

Best thing that happened to them wasn't the resurgence of Joe DiMaggio, the unveiling of Frank Shea, but the injury to Bobby Brown. Since Bill Johnson took over at third, he's been batting in runs by the cluster. They're going to be hard to whip.

It's hard to see how the Sox can beat them. Now that Mele has dropped to .299 (one hit in 7 A.B.'s Sunday), there isn't a .300 hitter among the regulars. Mele has hit only .222 at home, .8 in 36

A. L.'S BEST—Ted Williams, left, receives the Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis Memorial Trophy from Joe Cashman, Daily Record baseball scribe, and president of the baseball writers of Boston, for having been chosen the most valuable player in the American League in 1946. The presentation was made between the games of a Red Sox-Cleveland double-header at Fenway Park yesterday.

AB's, though most of his eight hits have been long and timely.

Williams has done little better. He's made only eight hits in 33 AB's for .243, and since he was under .200 on the 17-game trip that preceded the home stay he's now down to .286 and showing only occasional flashes of improvement.

There is little doubt that Boudreau has driven him rat-traps. When a fellow who hit .406 in 1941 and .342 last year can't get a basehit with the entire left side of the field open to him, something's definitely wrong.

It isn't that the wind is blowing in either. There was the time in Sunday's doubleheader when he twice tried to bunt and failed.

The wind had nothing to do with that.

Pecky has been a pleasant surprise with his 18 hits in 41 AB's since he came home, a .439 clip, and Doerr has made 13 in 34 for .371. Jones, too, has been better than expected with .303 from 10 hits, mostly long ones, in 33 AB's. But Williams and Mele are your power men, and Williams in particular has got to hit if the Sox are to win.

Nor is the pitching holding up. Hughson has a 4-6 record, has completed only five of 13 starts. Last year he won 20 games. Ferriar, far underweight, has been chased in his last four starts. He has completed only 6 of 14 starts. His record is 6-6. Thus he's lost as many games as he did all last season when he won 25.

Mickey Harris won 17 last year, had won nine by June 23. He's won one this year, and though he says he "never felt better," there is reason to believe his arm is giving him trouble.

There's the story. Maybe Galehouse will take up some of the slack in the pitching department, and maybe Williams will hit the .340 he promised to hit earlier in the season. If they don't, if things continue as they are, they will close with an 89-65 record, and that doesn't figure to beat the Yanks.

Galehouse to See Plenty of Action

Denny Galehouse pitches his first game in seven years for the Red Sox today when he faces Detroit in the first game of a series of three. He's short work, but he promises to get plenty of it with the Sox, their pitching being what it is... Detroit has lost nine in a row. Since coming East they've dropped two to Washington, two to the A's and three to the Yankees. They've slumped in a hurry from first place to fifth, and they're now six games behind the pace-setting Yankees, below the 500 mark.

Pitching may be 70 per cent of baseball, but Detroit is supposed to have the best pitching in either league. It goes to prove that the other 30 per cent, if 30 per cent it is, is quite important. The Tigers are sixth in hitting, last in fielding. Infielders often make or break pitching, and Detroit's infield of Kell, Lake, May and Cullenbine isn't up to standard, though Kell is the best third sacker in the league.

Nor is the outfield hitting. Old Doc Cramer is replacing Evers against lefties. Pat Mullin is below .300... Dick Wakefield has been used as a pinch hitter of late, so probably has recovered sufficiently from his injury to replace rookie Wertz in left field. Mayhap the Tigers will rise up in their wrath during their Boston stay. Certainly they've got to snap out of it some time, though they won't challenge seriously for the pennant. They were overrated last year when they finished second, were over-rated again last spring when pennant predictions were being made.

Dom Dimaggio played his first full game since June 2 when he replaced Moses in the lineup in the second game of Sunday's twin bill. He drove in two runs his first time at bat, failed later with three on and again with two on. But he saved the day for Harry Dorish with a shoestring catch of Keltner's drive in the seventh. One run was in, one man was on and if the ball broke through it would have gone for a triple, made the score 6-4 and driven Dorish from the hill. "No other center fielder in the business could have made it," said Clevelanders, who think a lot of their Melkovich...

Sunday attendance was 34,863, best of the year. It boosted the Sox total attendance in 22 home days to 513,653—a daily average of 23,348... The three-day, four-game series with the Indians totaled $30,274, breaking the best three-day, four-game series mark of $23,233, set by the Sox and Yanks here last August... Jones has hit safely in nine straight games,

Bob Falkenburg Wins on Court

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 23 (AP)—Big Yvon of France started the defense of his men's singles title today in the Wimbledon tennis championships by winning his opening match with Don Butler of England 6-2, 7-5, 6-0.

Petra's first serve on the center court formal opened the two-week court classic—unofficial world champions of tennis—that American Joe Kramer is a one-sided favorite to win. Petra showed evidence of the foot injury that kept him off the courts this spring until two weeks ago.

Bob Falkenburg of Los Angeles, the first American to triumph in the 1947 tourney made short work of Philippe Washer, Belgium Davis Cup player, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Gust Brown, member of the Australian Cup team, eliminated Bill Robertson of the United States, 6-1, 6-4, 6-3, while Denny Fals, Australian singles champion, defeated L. E. Carter of England, 6-1, 6-0, 6-1.

WYNN BACK IN ACTION
CHICAGO, June 23 (INS)—Col. Matt J. Wynn, 86, nationally-known turfman and Kentucky Derby director since 1902, was ready to renew his horse racing activities. Wynn was released yesterday from St. Luke's Hospital where he had been under treatment since June 13 for a cold and fever.

Chicago Thriller Gives B's Lift for St. Louis Series

By BILL GRIMES

ST. LOUIS, June 23—The Braves were in gay spirits on the train coming down here last night from Chicago after taking a thrilling 11-inning decision from the Cubs, which gave them the odd game of the series.

Johnny Sain, who had beaten the Cubs Saturday, did a grand piece of relief pitching. So he grabbed two wins in as many days, his eighth and ninth of the season.

Big John relieved Si Johnson in the 10th after Bill Nicholson had scored "Peanuts" Lowrey with a three-bagger. Dallesandro singled home the tying run and then Clyde McCullough beat out a bunt. It looked like curtains for the Tribe but Sain bore down and got the next three batters.

Although the game-winning hit was a blooper off Dick Culler's bat in the 11th on which Phil Masi was able to score because Eddie Waitkus held the ball out in short right field, the successive home runs by Bob Elliott and Frank McCormick, with two out in the ninth and the Braves trailing two runs, were the payoffs.

Bill Voiselle turned in a good performance. He threw a lot of baseballs during his 7-2-3 innings while serving home run balls to Nicholson and McCullough. But he was still in charge of the situation with two out in the eighth. Then he weakened and the Cubs took a 5-3 lead before Johnson went to his rescue. Voiselle will help the Braves, make no mistake about it.

Bama Rowell is playing the best ball of his major league career. He's hitting like a fiend and playing a great outfield. He has a cool .375 on the trip. Moreover, he's the most reliable bunter on the squad.

It will be many moons before more thrills are packed into one game than there were yesterday. The Braves lead 3-0, 3-1, 3-2 and 7-5, but they couldn't hold any of them. But they (Elliott and McCormick) came through like champions in the ninth.

It's to the Cubs' credit that they had enough fight in reverse to tie the game after the Tribe had scored twice in the tenth.

That Sain was winning, and even anxious to pitch relief yesterday after going the route the previous day, is further evidence of the Braves' great spirit. With each game, the Braves are becoming more and more confident that they are the club to beat. They have won six out of eight on this trip, and one of the setbacks was a present to the Cubs.

Busy Week Ahead Of Sandlot Board; Nashua, Lynn Trials

Claude Davidson and Bill Barrett, co-directors of the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Sandlot Baseball championships, have a busy week ahead of them. Davidson, the president of the New England League, will lead the Hearst delegation to Holman Field, Nashua, N. H., on Thursday at 1 p. m. for an afternoon of baseball trials. Barrett Red Sox scout, will work with Mike Ryba, pilot of the Red Sox Lynn farm club, at Fraser Field, Lynn, Saturday (9 a. m.) in another set of Hearst trials.

The progress of the tourney has been showing steady acceleration. Trials have already been held at Lawrence, Worcester and Providence. Six boys have been selected from these three cities to play in the N. E. championships at Fenway Park July 29.

Two more boys will be selected at both Nashua and Lynn to augment this number. Trials will also be held at Braves Field, Pawtucket, Fall River, Somerville and Brockton.

The most recent tryouts, which were staged at Cranston Stadium, Providence, R. I., produced two fine players in Lou Gorman, first baseman, and Pete Pendegast, pitcher. Both attend La Salle Academy.

Pendegast is 16 years old, weighs 188 pounds and stands six feet. He is the recent author of a brilliant one-hitter against Cranston High.

There is no entry fee for the Hearst tourney. Everything is free. Boys must be over 15 and under 19 years of age.

Blackwell Misses Cy Young's Record

Tall Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati side-arm mound artist, although somewhat disappointed over his hairline failure to duplicate Johnny Vander Meer's record of pitching two consecutive no hitters, enjoyed the distinction today of being the major league's "winningest" pitcher, according to the Associated Press.

The Fresno flash, another of a long line of great stars to hail from California, followed his hitless and runless pitching performance against the Dodgers yesterday.

He came within two putouts of registering his second straight no-run, no-hit game as he retired the Dodgers in the eight innings without a safety. He got rid of the first man to face him in the ninth to extend his consecutive hitless and scoreless string to 19 innings (he began the Braves game with 1 2-3 hitless innings), but Eddie Stanky drove a sharp ground ball past his legs into centerfield for a clean baseshit to spoil his dream. Jackie Robinson followed with another single before Blackwell retired the side for a 4-0 victory in the opener of the doubleheader.

Blackwell, only hurler in the majors to have defeated every other club in the league at least once, now has won 11 games, one more than Boston's Warren Spahn. The near no-hitter was his fourth shutout and his ninth straight victory. He has lost two.

Blackie came within four innings of tying Cy Young's record of 23 consecutive hitless and scoreless innings. Young set his mark as a member of the Red Sox in 1904. Vander Meer, a teammate of Blackwell's, put together 21 2-3 hitless, scoreless innings in 1938.

While Blackwell once again was proving that he was No. 1 in the National League, an "unwanted" shortstop named Eddie Miller got half the Reds' total of four hits against Joe Hatten and Hank Behrman and drove in three of their four runs. Miller also started a double play which ended Brooklyn's only threat.

Brooklyn outfielder Carl Furillo, who until recently was kept out of the lineup whenever a righthander faced the Dodgers because of his supposed weakness against orthodox hurling, walked a home run with the bases full against righthander Elmer Riddle. He also hit two singles against righthanded pitchers to drive in seven runs and lead the Dodgers to a 9-8 victory in the second game.

Home run with Buddy Kerr on base gave the Giants a 7-5 victory over the Cardinals, ending the Red birds' winning streak at nine games. Walker Cooper poled two circuit blows to account for the first three Giant runs.

Rookie catcher Larry (Yogi) Berra highlighted a five-run first inning by hitting a home run with the bases loaded to lead the Yankees to a 6-5 victory over Detroit.

Carl Scheib, the Athletics' 20-year-old righthander, won his third successive start and chalked up his second shutout by defeating the White Sox 3-0 in the second game of a doubleheader after the Sox had won the opener on an unearned run 1-0 in 10 innings. Washington and St. Louis split a double-header, the Senators taking out a 3-2 victory in the opener and the Browns slugging out a 9-6 win in the nightcap. Bob Newsom received credit for his third win in the opener while Sammy Zoldak got his initial triumph of the season in the nightcap.

In a battle for last place in the National League, the Phillies outlasted the Pirates 4-3 in 13 innings in the opener of a scheduled doubleheader. The nightcap, cancelled at the end of four innings by a Sunday 7:00 p. m. curfew, found the Phils leading 8-6.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

BATTING: Carl Furillo, Brooklyn—Homered with the bases loaded and singled twice to drive seven runs and lead the Dodgers to a 9-8 victory in the second game of a doubleheader with Cincinnati after the Reds had won the opener, 4-0.
PITCHING: Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati—Pitched eight straight hitless and scoreless innings, shutting out the Dodgers, 4-0, to extend his string to 19 consecutive hitless and scoreless innings. He hurled a no-run, no-hit game in his previous start.

Bishop and Turnesa Top Field of 98 in Mass. Open Salute to N. H. Clubs

By The Associated Press

For the first time since 1932, there were strong amateur threats in the 72-hole Mass. Open golf championship which started today at the Belmont Country Club.

Topping the long list of those who score the two-day competition's $200 prize money were amateurs Willie Turnesa, the British champion, national titlist Ted Bishop and Skee Riegel of Upper Darby, Pa., their Walker Cup teammates.

Rated just below those capable internationalists were Bobby Knowles of Brookline, Charlie Mulcahy of Newton, Freddie Wright, the seven-times state champion, and Eddie Martin of Winchester.

Since 1905, only two amateurs have won the State's Open crown and both were former national titlists, Jesse Guifford in 1919 and 1923, and Walker Cup team captain Francis Ouimet, who was the pre-tourney favorite 15 years ago at Oyster Harbors.

Last year's winner, Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles, did not enter, but his runner-up Jerry Gianferante of Long Meadow, was in the field of 98. So were Turnesa's brothers, Mike and Jim, also of White Plains, N. Y., who rushed from the PGA tournament at Detroit. Joe Turnesa, oldest of the seven golfing brothers, won the 1930 Mass. open.

Ghezzi vs. Harbert, Ferrier vs. Bell In PGA Semi-Finals

DETROIT, June 23 (AP) —

Three golf pros—two of them foreign born—who learned the game from fathers who also were professionals, rode into the semi-finals of the National Open PGA championship here today along with ex-champion Vic Ghezzi, former caddy who beat Byron Nelson in the 1941 finals at Denver.

The second-generation pros, two of them competing for the second time in a National PGA tournament, are Melvin (Chick) Harbert of Northville, Mich., Australian-born Jim Ferrier, and 38-year-old Art Bell of Colma, Cal., who was born in Hawaii, son of a former San Francisco professional.

The quartet constituted the last survivors of an original field of 64 who started upset-packed match play competition last Friday on Plum Hollow Golf Club's long, treacherous championship layout. Ghezzi, 36-year-old native of Rumson, N. J., slapped down the National Open champion, Lew Worsham of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2, to collide in the lower-bracket semi-windup with Harbert.

Bell, who turned professional in 1928 on his graduation from Punahou High School in Honolulu at the age of 19, staved off a rousing rally by Ky Laffoon, Cherokee Indian now playing out of St. Andrews, Ill., to win his quarter-final battle 2-up and move into an all-California semi-final struggle against Ferrier, who tripped 1946 National Open champion Lloyd Mangrum, 4 and 3.

Winners of today's Ferrier-Bell and Ghezzi-Harbert battles will clash in the 36-hole finals tomorrow.

Here's a salute to many of the sportsmen's clubs in New Hampshire which provided scholarships to sponsor youngsters who are attending the New Hampshire Conservation Camp being conducted at Bear Brook State Park throughout this week.

This camp was organized by an enthusiastic group of conservation and youth agencies in the Granite State, their aim to give training to about 100 high school boys and girls in current methods for conserving soil and water, forests, and wildlife. Campers are accompanied by skilled instructors and technicians, venturing afield to observe ways of study and control now carried on in New Hampshire. The program also includes fishing trips, swimming, and other outdoor activities.

The various rod and gun clubs each sponsored from one to five campers. Several outfits selected candidates of their own, and the interest in the project was most gratifying.

This writer would like to see more programs of this type planned for youngsters, for the future of our fish and game, our forests, and natural resources depends on teen-agers anglers and hunters. Numerous clubs in Massachusetts have started to take cognizance of this fact, inaugurating junior programs, father-and-son nights, and the like. Educating youth along these lines will pay rich dividends in the years to come.

ANGLING ANGLES: According to Ed Shaw, genial taxidermist of Malden, many anglers are having their big catches mounted—rather than eating 'em. Latest visitor to his shop was Al Witter, Melrose, who brought in a 6-pound largemouth bass, measuring 20½ inches in length, with a 14½-inch girth. He hooked the fish with a yellow streamer fly, in Long Pond, near Augusta, Me.

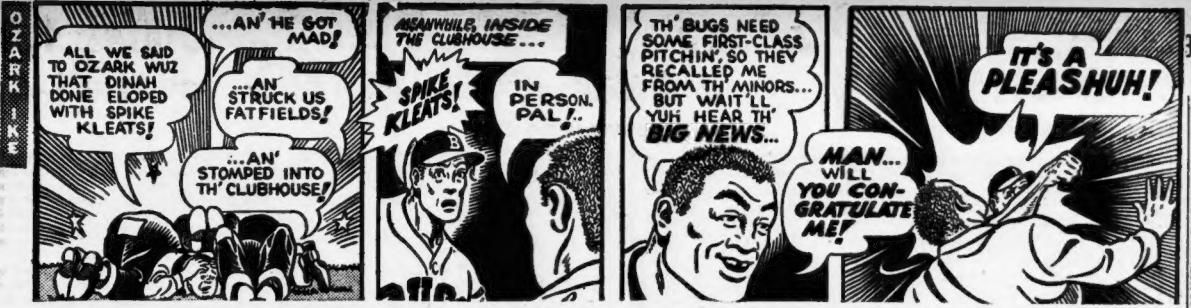

Speaking of Maine, Ted Janes, editor of Outdoors, says the smallmouths were really hitting in the west branch of the St. Croix river, Princeton, where he has been making a motion picture... Guided by Mahon Slipp, of the Down River Camps, photographers "Aha!" plenty of the fish in action, and all the finny "actors" were returned to the river... Salmon, trout, and toad are striking well in West Musquash lake, at Tadmage, reports Bob Elliot.

OUTDOOR O. O.'s: Appropriately called the Champion Bobcat Hunter, Clarence Whipple, East Lempster, N. H., has broken his own record this year by bagging 18 "cats" with his two dogs. This kill tops his '46 score by one animal, states conservation officer Jesse Scott, of Guild... As we recall, there's a bounty of $10 apiece on wildcats, and they're mighty tough scrappers when cornered... In answer to a recent query, the daily bag limit for sunfish in the Bay State is 20, and there isn't any legal length limit on this species... To Joseph Cole, Sharon: Glad to hear from a "striper hound"; we're working on your suggestion.

Lincoln Downs Near Completion
 B. A. Dario, Pawtucket, R. I. automobile merchant, didn't know a horse from the proverbial billy-goat until 15 years ago. But today he stands on the threshold of becoming a key figure in New England racing. The Lincoln Downs track in Lincoln, R. I., will be spic and span when July 7 rolls around, at which time a 42-day meeting is scheduled to get underway.
 When it was learned some months ago that Lincoln Downs wasn't merely so much talk, but a venture that entailed millions and a modern, well-equipped racing plant, horsemen of other tracks were inclined to scoff.
 "They've gone too far out on the limb," was the general opinion.

Bishop and Turnesa Top Field of 98 in Mass. Open Salute to N. H. Clubs

By The Associated Press

For the first time since 1932, there were strong amateur threats in the 72-hole Mass. Open golf championship which started today at the Belmont Country Club.

Topping the long list of those who scorn the two-day competition's $2000 prize money were amateurs Willie Turnesa, the British champion, national titlist Ted Bishop and Skeet Riegel of Upper Darby, Pa., their Walker Cup teammate.

Rated just below those capable internationalists were Bobby Knowles of Brookline, Charlie Mulcahy of Newton, Freddie Wright, the seven-times state champion, and Eddie Martin of Winchester.

Since 1905, only two amateurs have won the State's Open crown and both were former national titlists, Jesse Guilford in 1919 and 1929, and Walker Cup team captain Francis Ouimet, who was the pre-tourney favorite 15 years ago at Oyster Harbors.

Last year's winner, Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles, did not enter, but his runner-up Jerry Gianferante of Long Meadow, was in the field of 98. So were Turnesa's brothers, Mike and Jim, also of White Plains, N. Y., who rushed from the PGA tournament at Detroit. Joe Turnesa, oldest of the seven golfing brothers, won the 1930 Mass. open.

Hearst Junior Golf Opens At Pawtucket, R. I., June 30

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

The Hearst Junior Golf tournament, which begins at Pawtucket Golf Club a week from today, promises to be one of the outstanding junior tournaments ever staged in this area.

The Pawtucket round is the first of four New England qualifying rounds to determine the players who will compete in the New England final at Woodland July 21.

The National Hearst Golf committee has voted to hold the grand finals (open to the finalists of the Woodland round) at one of the swank courses in Los Angeles, Cal.

The four qualifying rounds will be medal play. The final will be match play.

A run-down of the qualifying rounds reads as follows:

Pawtucket Golf Club, June 30. South Shore C. C., Hingham, July 2.

Merrimack Valley C. C., Lawrence, July 7.

Wachusett C. C., West Boylston, July 11.

The rules for the Hearst Junior golf are the same as last year with one exception. The maximum age limit has been lowered to "under 19". Last year the top age was "under 21".

There is no entry fee. Everything is free.

Ghezzi vs. Harbert, Ferrier vs. Bell In PGA Semi-Finals

DETROIT, June 23 (AP) —

Three golf pros—two of them foreign born—who learned the game from fathers who also were professionals, rode into the semi-finals of the National Open PGA championship here today along with ex-champion Vic Ghezzi, former caddy who beat Byron Nelson in the 1941 finals at Denver.

The second-generation pros, two of them competing for the second time in a National PGA tournament, are Melvin (Chick) Harbert of Northville, Mich., Australian-born Jim Ferrier, and 38-year-old Art Bell of Colma, Cal., who was born in Hawaii, son of a former San Francisco professional.

The quartet constituted the last survivors of an original field of 64 who started upset-packed match play competition last Friday on Plum Hollow Golf Club's long, treacherous championship layout. Ghezzi, 36-year-old native of Rumson, N. J., slugged down the National Open champion, Lew Worsham of Pittsburgh, 3 and 2, to collide in the lower-bracket semi-windup with Harbert.

Bell, who turned professional in 1928 on his graduation from Punahou High School in Honolulu at the age of 19, staved off a rousing rally by Ky. Laffoon, Cherokee Indian now playing out of St. Andrews, Ill., to win his quarter-final battle 2-up and move into an all-California semi-final struggle against Ferrier, who tripped 1946 National Open champion Lloyd Mangrum, 4 and 3.

Winners of today's Ferrier-Bell and Ghezzi-Harbert battles will clash in the 36-hole finals tomorrow.

Here's a salute to many of the sportsmen's clubs in New Hampshire which provided scholarship to sponsor youngsters who are attending the New Hampshire Conservation Camp being conducted at Bear Brook State Park throughout this week.

This camp was organized by an enthusiastic group of conservation and youth agencies in the Granite State, their aim to give training to about 100 high school boys and girls in current methods for conserving soil and water, forests, and wildlife. Campers are accompanied by skilled instructors and technicians, venturing afield to observe ways of study and control now carried on in New Hampshire. The program also includes fishing trips, swimming, and other outdoor activities.

The various rod and gun clubs each sponsored from one to five campers. Several outfits selected candidates of their own, and the interest in the project was most gratifying.

Lincoln Downs Near Completion

B. A. Dario, Pawtucket, R. I. automobile merchant, didn't know a horse from the proverbial Billy-goat until 15 years ago. But today he stands on the threshold of becoming a key figure in New England racing. The Lincoln Downs track in Lincoln, R. I. will be epic and span when July 7 rolls around, at which time a 42-day training is scheduled to get underway.

When it was learned some months ago that Lincoln Downs wasn't merely so much talk, but a venture that entailed millions and a modern, well-equipped racing plant, horsemen of other tracks were inclined to scoff. "They've gone too far out on the limb," was the general opinion.
